Momauguin To Have Additional Postal Service

Postmaster Patrick J. Goode of New Haven has announced morning postal delivery throughout the Momauguin section and earlier deliveries in other sections served by the Rural Free Delivery No. 6 to be available to residents of these areas starting March 16.

The new service was made by the Post Office Department in Washington, D. C., following a survey by Goode and members of his staff due to an extensive increase in the population of the areas and the attending gain in the volume of mail handled by the rural free delivery carrier. There are at present 3,213 patrons on these routes.

The load of the rural free delivery carrier will be eased by the addition of a mounted city delivery carrier. Among the features of the new setup will be the service of special deliveries.

Among the streets to benefit by the new service will be Austin, George, Henry and Stevens streets, Bradford avenue, Second avenue, First avenue and Cosey Beach avenue. Intersecting streets at these locations will receive mail in boxes at the corners.

Local Graduates Impress Bus. World

Despite the diminutiveness of our proud town, 1937 graduates of E. H. H. S. are certainly making an impression throughout the country. This is proved through a communication from Miss Marjorie Ketcham, class poetess, who moved with her family to Washington, D. C. last fall, stating that she has acquired a secretarial position there. Miss Ketcham has also been recommended for radio work through a recent audition at N. B. C. studios.

MR. WILLIAM CARR

(Guest Editorial)

When the new East Haven High School opened its doors on September 28, 1938, Uncle Sam sent us our mail carrier in Mr. William Carr.

Mr. Carr, from the beginning, has taken an interest in the school life of the students. Especially has he been interested in sports. Through his efforts much good feeling has been spread. He has worked untiringly in the disposal of tickets and the spread of publicity whenever occasion demanded. His work in arranging for the Basketball banquet to be held shortly speaks of his great interest.

Let East Haven High School, as a body, thank Mr. Carr for his earnest support.

Queen's Canteen
Queen Victoria had a canteen especially built for the royal servants, under Buckingham palace. Very good wines, especially port and sherry, sold at nominal prices. The queen provided this facility for her household in order that the servants would not do their gossiping outside the palace walls.

Plenty of Harbors
Jamaica in the British West Indies has sixteen harbors, chief of which are Kingston, Port Morant, Old Harbour, Montego bay, Falmouth, St. Ann's bay, Port Maria and Port Antonio.

Esquiline Hill in Rome
The Esquiline hill is the highest of the seven hills of Rome. It is between the Viminal and Caelian hills and is 246 feet in height. Under Augustus it was laid out in pleasure gardens known as the Gardens of Maecenas. Soon after it was the fashionable residential portion of the city. Virgil, Horace, Maecenas and Propertius were among its residents. The baths of Titus and Nero's golden palace were on the Esquiline and many ruins have been uncovered only to be destroyed in the erection of new buildings. The Esquiline is a portion of Rome with fine streets and buildings.

The earth seems a desolate mother, Betrayed like the princes of old, The ermine stripped from her shoulders, And her bosom all naked and cold.

Production Creates Employment

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinals of the Republic

Employment, as every American knows, depends on production. When production booms, jobs and purchasing power flourish. When production is curtailed, jobs decrease and relief rolls mount—as is happening in America today. Obviously then the way toward increased employment is to encourage production. And, conversely, the way to swell relief rolls is to discourage production. This is no new idea. America has realized it throughout her history, and has progressed in general well-being as sound production has increased. Out of this process have come great cities, great areas of cultivated lands, great industries, great states, a great nation. Every American of voting age can remember the part played by three young and growing industries—the automobile, the motion picture and the radio—in helping to lift us from the post-war depression of the early twenties to new heights of production, employment and general prosperity. That was because the production and employment which such activities represented were widely encouraged. The progress they assured would have been impossible under a barrage of punitive taxes and abuse, against which the group of small business men who met in Washington recently voiced their protests. Neither then, nor in other days of prosperity, was America wealthier in lands, in equipment, in resources, or in the intelligence and ability of her people, than she is today. Wider education and scientific advancement have opened still further the door to progress. America can go forward, and is straining to do so. What she needs is a readiness at Washington to strike off the shackles with which unreasonable taxes and bureaucratic regulations have bound her giant limbs. Let this be done and the road to increased production, increased employment, increased purchasing power and greater national well-being will be opened again.

SUPERVISING SMALL HOME CONSTRUCTION

The smoke-pipe should be galvanized iron being not less than 24 or 18 gauge. It should be the full size of the smoke sleeve on the heater and do not allow the contractor to cut it down in size under any circumstances.

If there is an oil burner, the best method of heating the domestic hot water supply is by the use of Bell and Gosset valves in connection with the oil burner and hot water tank. It is wise to have the tank provided with an automatic safety valve in case the water should become overheated due to unexpected failure of automatic devices or other reasons.

The Gutenberg Bible
The Gutenberg Bible that cost Uncle Sam $500,000, was printed on vellum and originally belonged to Dr. Faustus of Germany. Because printing was thought to be a magic art, printed books were suppressed. When Dr. Faustus was an old man, he sold this Bible to the king of France. It went to the Benedictine monastery of St. Blazius in the Black forest. There it remained hidden for many years and at the time of the Napoleonic wars was removed to the monastery of St. Paul in Austria. In 1926, when that monastery needed money, it was sold to a private collector—one Dr. Vollbehr. Four years later congress authorized the purchase of the Vollbehr collection of incunabula. In this collection was the Gutenberg Bible. It now rests in the library of Congress at Washington, D. C.

First Act of Congress
Owing to the lack of a quorum and the delay in organizing the new federal government, no bills were passed by the house and senate for nearly three months. The first law enacted was "an act to regulate the time and manner of administering certain oaths," and it was approved by President Washington on June 1, 1789. The second bill passed by both houses was "an act for laying a duty on goods, ware, and merchandise imported into the United States." This bill was approved by Washington on July 4 of the same year.

States' Buildings at New York Fair

NEW YORK—This sketch was made from final plans for the Court of the State Buildings at the New York World's Fair 1939. Here the various states of the union, most of which have taken space for their displays, will exhibit their natural advantages and industrial accomplishments. The English section is shown above. There will also be French and Spanish areas.

THE HAT-BOX

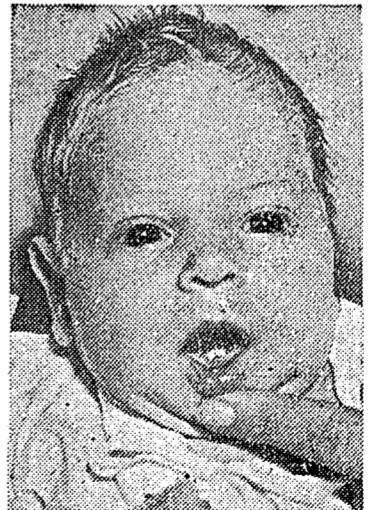

New Veils
Among the new spring millinery displays there appears quite a number of unique styles in veils. Practically every hat, whether sport or dress, has a veiling of some style and texture.

A course, silky, fish net veil is seen on some of the hats which is rather dazzling. This is an oblong veil with a fancy one-inch open-work edge at each end. One of these ends is pulled down across the top of the crown from side to side and tacked on either side of the headsize band. The veil falls over the front of the hat covering the face about one foot with no veil in the back.

In the hand, this veil looks more like a scarf. It is so extreme, it is feared that it will be some time before the public will take to it; yet it may become popular very soon.

Jeff Girls Win Three Titles

The Jeff Girls captured the Eastern Seaboard, New England and State titles all at one time, last Sunday night when they defeated the Middletown Speed Girls, 22-21. The game was close throughout with the winning counter being swished in the last 20 seconds of play by Lucy Peters.

The Jeff Big Five outpointed the Speed Boys for the second time this season, in the opener, 44-41.

At 8 p. m. the Jeff Girls will take on either the Stratford All-Stars or the Allen Perfumers in a preliminary to the main contest.

Electrical Measurement

There are seven units of electrical measurement, such as ampere, ohm, volt, etc. The names were arbitrarily applied, being adaptations from the names of pioneers in the field of electrical science.

The ampere is named for A. M. Ampere, a French electrician; the ohm for the German G. S. Ohm; the volt for Alessandro Volta, while the others take their names from Charles A. de Coulomb, Michael Faraday, James P. Joule and James Watt.

The ohm is a unit of resistance; it represents the resistance offered to an unvarying current by a column of mercury at the temperature of ice, 14.5421 grams in mass, of a cross-sectional area of 1.00003 square millimeters and of the length of 106.3 centimeters.

The ampere is a unit of current. An ampere decomposes .000324 of a gram of water in one second, or deposits silver at the rate of .001118 of a gram per second, when passed through a solution of nitrate of silver in water.

The volt is a unit of electromotive force. One volt equals one ampere of current passing through a substance having one ohm of resistance.

The coulomb is the unit of quantity; the amount of electricity transferred by a current of one ampere in one second.

The farad is a unit of capacity; the capacity of a condenser charged to a potential of one volt by one coulomb.

The joule is a unit of work. It is equivalent to the energy expended in one second by one ampere current in one ohm resistance.

The watt is the unit of power. It is equivalent to work done at the rate of one joule per second.

"Tizzie Lish"— Before and After

Below you see Bill Compton as he looks to his mother and people who see him going into the Columbia Playhouse before the performance of Al Pearce's "Watch the Fun Go By" program. And above you see Bill made up for his role of "Tizzie Lish," all set to broadcast crazy recipes on the show, heard over the WABC-Columbia network Tuesdays from 9:00 to 9:30 P. M., EST (rebroadcast to the west at 12 Midnight, EST). Bill gets his inspiration for his humorous monologues—not from Joe Miller's joke book—but from any cook book that happens to be handy.

Have "All-Day Cigarettes"

The Burmese, inveterate smokers, delight in puffing an "all-day cigarette." From one to two feet in length and two inches in diameter, these cigarettes are of sufficient size to serve an entire family, including the baby, from morning until night. In fact, says Collier's Weekly, they are usually so large and heavy up to noon that they may be used as weapons of defense.
