The American Legion Safety Promotion Committee has drawn up regulations for riders of bicycles, to be issued through Supt. William E. Gillis of the East Haven Public Schools, upon the issuance of a statement this week by Chief of Police Hugh Farrell that arrests will be made in matters of traffic violations by bicyclists.

Regulations

Regulations for bicyclists are listed as follows:

1. Learn to ride in a park or other safe places. Stay off the streets until you can ride well.
2. Have your bicycle equipped with proper brakes, lights and bell or horn. Keep it adjusted to fit you, and in good condition. Check your brakes frequently.
3. When riding, keep to the right, close to the curb. If local ordinance require riding on the sidewalks, be sure you are considerate of pedestrians.
4. Obey all traffic rules and regulations. Use hand signals when you are going to stop or turn.
5. Ride without wobbling and avoid sharp turns. Weaving through traffic is dangerous. Avoid fast riding over slippery or rough roads.
6. Never carry a passenger. It is dangerous.
7. Never hold on to a moving vehicle.
8. When riding at night carry a light in front, and either a light or reflector in the rear. Light-colored clothing also help motorists to see you.
9. Do not try to carry an object in your hand, or to ride in the street no-handed. If parcels must be carried, they should be strapped to the bicycle or placed in a carrier.
10. Choose your route carefully. Avoid crowded streets and highways.

Mr. George A. Sisson will represent the association at a meeting of the Recreation Board on Monday, April 18.

East Haven's First Librarian

By Donald V. Chidsey

The next problem before the Board of Directors was the providing of funds necessary for increasing the number of books. At the start donations of books came from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the old collection of library books belonging to the public school system, and from various townspeople. The Town of East Haven at the October Town Meeting, appropriated twenty-five dollars as a yearly grant to sustain the library.

Mrs. F. B. Street, wife of one of the members of the Board of Directors, very kindly gave a lawn fete to raise funds, and was able thereby to net nearly two hundred dollars for the young library.

Mr. George H. Townsend, a civic-minded gentleman then living just outside of East Haven, but who held the welfare of this infant library organization close to his heart, very generously offered to match the library backers with cash equal to such an amount as they were able to raise. As a result Mr. Townsend donated the amount of thirty-six dollars and seventeen cents on January 22nd, 1910.

Up until this time Miss Street, the Librarian, had given freely of her time necessary for the operation of the library and to show their appreciation of this fact, the Board of Directors at their Board meeting, of January 22nd, voted to allow Miss Street the money she had taken in on fines charged for books overdue. While from that point onward the Directors very gladly did what they could to reimburse Miss Street for the many thousands of hours she has spent in the interest of the library, it has always been pitifully small. It is true that Miss Street handled the librarian's duties as a work of love.

Much credit belongs to Miss

Street in the new library holding the interest of the townspeople. It is largely owing to Miss Street's spirit of helpfulness to all who came to the library, the interest of Mrs. Harriet Metcalf's was secured and the Board of Directors were indeed encouraged to learn on February 4th, 1911, following the passing of Mrs. Metcalf that she had left a legacy of over one thousand dollars. This kindly act was greatly appreciated and was of course an aid to the new library. Little did they realize at the time that Miss Street's spirit of thoughtfulness was indirectly responsible for the later bequest from Mr. Isaac Hagaman. It must be remembered that Mrs. Metcalf kept house for Mr. Hagaman and undoubtedly her strong interest in the growing library aroused a desire within Mr. Hagaman to really establish the library permanently in the years to follow.

EASTER DAY — 1938

Easter, with its message of immortality is here. It tells us that death is the open door to a fuller life. Christ is risen! The Cross with its shame — Death with its dread forever conquered. In glorious triumph Christ is risen — He Lives — and because He lives, we shall live also.

In response to this message of Life, let us come with Joy and Thanksgiving as a Congregation, as a Family, Children of the Heavenly King, renewing our loyalties to God the Father and His Son our Risen Lord and Saviour.

May your Easter tide joy be abundant and abiding.

REV. ALFRED CLARK, Rector,
Christ Episcopal Church.

THE BOOK-CASE

by
MISS BETH W. TAYLOR
Librarian
Hagaman Memorial Library

"I have some friends, some honest friends
And honest friends are few;
My pipe of briar, my open fire,
A book that's not too new."

"Never read any book that is not a year old."

"If I have not read a book before, it is, to all intents and purposes, new to me, whether it was printed yesterday or three hundred years ago."

In order to cooperate more fully with the schools, we find it necessary to replace some worn out copies of standard children's classics with new attractive editions. During this period we urge our adult readers to take the advice of these well-known literary people and read some of the older books that were missed.

The next time you are in the library we invite you to stroll through the stacks in back of the desk where some of the "not too new" books are shelved. The books have been rearranged and the stacks labeled.

THE HAT-BOX

Rough Straw Sailors
Upon looking into the up-to-date "Hat Box" this week, it is found that the rough straw sailor stands out among all other hats.
The rough straw sailor is very quaint and old-fashioned looking, yet very new. The trim is very simple so as to carry out the tailored effect. Some have a large flower in the front and others have wide bands of grosgrain ribbon with bows and end, while others have just a pearl tailored pin stuck in through the front of the crown at an angle. Heavy elastic under-hairbands are needed to hold the hat securely in place.

High School Girls To Enter Tennis Tourney

Varsity, Dodgers Win

By Ed Munson, Sports Editor

The girls seem to have crowded the boys out of the news this week with the announcement of various feminine spring activities. Virginia McLay, girls' physical education supervisor has entered East Haven High in the tennis tournament to be held in May and June in connection with the New Haven Tercentenary Celebration. The matches will be played on the New Haven courts with the local teachers of Physical Education in charge. As yet Miss McLay hasn't chosen the 4 East Haven representatives, who will compete with girls of every town in the county.

Varsity, Dodgers Win

A pair of interesting basketball games were played last Friday afternoon, to top off East Haven High's basketball season. The first game saw the Dodgers, winners of the intra-mural tournament, lose out to the Freshman, made up of Junior Varsity players, by virtue of a last minute basket, 17-1.

In the second contest this year's varsity gave next year's tentative quintet a lacing to the tune of 39-22.

Glynn and Thomson starred for the winners while Lynch and V. Castellon played well for the losers.

Girls Play Day

The girls of East Haven High School will act as hostesses at a Play Day to take place Saturday, April 30, from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m.

The student committee, under the direction of Virginia McLay, is composed of the following girls: Genevieve Stephenson, Virginia Germond, Betty Haller, Celia McGuire. An intensive program of softball, relays, horseshoes, deck tennis, push ball, jump rope, songs, cheers and competitive pyramid building is being planned for the invited schools.

The high schools to take part are: Ansonia, Hamden, Hillhouse, Seymour and West Haven.

Junior Girls Win

The Junior girls captured the title in the recently completed high school intra-mural tournament played by the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes.

The Junior team's players are: Genevieve Stephenson, captain; Dymna McDonough, Jean Strizinski, Betty Haller, Virginia Freer, Dorothy Caswell, and Elinor Shoemaker.
