Meeting Votes Against Building Retaining Wall Demolished In Hurricane

Adjourned Meeting Decides Against Accepting P. W. A. Aid In Financing Part Of Cost Of Building Wall To Protect Short Beach Road.

Last evening's adjourned town meeting in the Community House voted 103-47 against the erection of the proposed retaining wall at Center Beach and Granite Bay, both at Short Beach.

In order to accept the government's offer to finance 45 per cent of the cost, up to $47,285 it was required of the town that all arrangements be completed and work begun by December 31 and required that the job be let out on bids, the work to be complete in ten months. Reginald Baldwin was moderator and Winsford Morgan clerk.

The minutes of the meeting November 11 in the town hall were read and J. Wesson Phelps was called on to explain the proposed lay-out which would widen the road to the south and provide for a side walk and guard rail.

T. Holmes Bracken rose to defend an amendment to give the Branford public use of the beach and called attention to his figures that the assessed value of the private property at the retaining wall was $53,000 and expressed disapproval of the town appropriating money for the new wall.

Thorvald F. Hammer, president of the Malleable Iron Fittings Company was elected a director of the New Haven Gas Light Company, at a meeting of the board held Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Hammer was elected to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the resignation of William W. Bodine of Philadelphia.

Mr. Hammer is active and has served on the directorate of the Malleable Iron Founders' Association and was a member of the Code Authority for that industry during the NRA. He is also a director of the Valve and Fittings Institute and represents his industry in the Manufacturers Standardization Society.

Branford Branch Holds Annual Red Cross Drive

The Branford Branch of Red Cross is holding its annual membership drive. This year it is hoped for an increase of memberships in order that more persons may have a part in the many emergencies that arise and are taken care of by the National Red Cross (without a special drive for funds). Few of the public realize what a dollar to the Red Cross does.

Last year the Red Cross membership was 5,525,565—the highest enrollment since the post-war period. This fine increase came after three years of intensive service to millions of suffering people by our organization, working in the disaster field. It came also, I feel sure, because of the broader service our Chapters are giving in their own communities, and because of superior organization for the Roll Call in our Chapters.

And yet if we compare this membership with our population of one hundred and thirty million people, we find that, after all, it represents but a small percentage.

This year I hope we may register another substantial gain, and that we may press on in the years to come until the Red Cross shall in very truth be an integral part of the life of every man, woman and child in our nation.—Norman H. Davis, Chairman National Red Cross.

The Red Cross only asks for a special contribution from you in time of great and overwhelming disaster, or if a smaller catastrophe occurs right here in our neighborhood. Then the money you give goes direct for the relief of the people suffering in the disaster, and not for any other Red Cross work. But once each year we come to you for support of the useful but less dramatic work the Red Cross does day by day right here in our own community, also a part of your membership fee goes to Red Cross for service all over the nation.

Proposes Ordinance To Correct Poor Arrangements In Disposal System Installation—Dr. McQueen Finds Property Owners Anxious To Rebuild To Meet Reasonable Requirements For Protection.

Coroner Decides To Indefinitely Suspend Case

Coroner James J. Corrigan last night stated the inquest of the Linsley House fire deaths had been suspended indefinitely following the questioning of witnesses yesterday. It will be a week at least before a decision is made, the Coroner's office stated this afternoon. Beyond that the coroner had nothing to say concerning the inquest or facts learned during it.

The decision to conduct the inquest came after a lengthy investigation and a prolonged conference between the coroner and state police early yesterday.

Members of the state police conferring with the coroner were Lt. Frank Virelli, who is also a deputy state fire marshal; and State Troopers William Murphy and Frank Palmer of the Westbrook barracks.

After conferring with Coroner Corrigan, the state police officers

The havoc wrought by the hurricane of September 21, resulted in serious damage to private cesspools and septic tank systems of sewage and Dr. Arthur McQueen, health officer finds many property owners coming to him for advice as to the construction of new disposal arrangements.

In some cases, especially on the islands it is necessary to adopt the chemical plan.

For some years past the health officer has advocated an improvement of the situation to reduce the river pollution and danger to Branford's health program.

Back in August Dr. Arthur McQueen, presented to the selectmen who in turn passed to the town council a suggested ordinance and minimum requirements covering sewage disposal for dwellings. For some reason or other the proposed ordinance has not been presented to a town meeting as yet.

In view of the hurricane damage to so many cesspools and septic tanks or other private systems the

Short Beach To Present "Hot Water"

Friday at 8 p. m. the Good Fellowship Dramatic Club of Short Beach will offer "Hot Water" in Riverside Hall. The production is being sponsored by the Short Beach Men's Club, and tickets may be secured from members of that organization, or through the dramatic club members.

In order to prevent overcrowding, admissions will be restricted to the limited capacity of the hall. The cast is made up entirely of local residents of Short Beach, including Mrs. Victor Hutchinson, Mrs. Clarence Munger, Mrs. Paul Rinker, Mrs. Donald Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Poulton, Donald Hayward, Theodore Hoganson and Phillip Bulger. Mrs. Eric Swanson is directing the play and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Charlotte and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kelsey are in charge of properties. The play itself is an interesting comedy and should be very entertaining. There will be dancing after the performance.

Briefly the story concerns the Whitney family—Mr. and Pa Whitney and their lovely daughter Janis. Every known comedy and farce situation makes "Hot Water" a play with never an idle moment.

The fun begins when a guest is taken to be a plumber comes to fix the hot water heater and continues to be funny until the final curtain.

The Good Fellowship Dramatic Club is scarcely a year old but has produced some very worthwhile pieces.

Inspection Tour Of M. I. F. Factory Is A Revelation

By Gordon W. Barry

After all these years of wondering how the intricate passages in metal castings were made I was enlightened last Thursday afternoon upon my tour of the M. I. F., Branford's great part of American industry and, too, I was shown many other operations in the manufacturing world that filled me with awe and respect for the genius of man's accomplishments in his eternal onward march to better living conditions for his fellowmen.

In the pursuit of my calling I have been in many plants of operation, from the newspaper of yesterday to the mighty Eastman factories at Rochester, as they stand in their reflecting glory of human progress. But on no tour was I more impressed than by my three hour visit with the Malleable's factory.

Turkey Farm Ready For Thanksgiving

Whipple Farm in Stony Creek Road Has White Holland Birds—Pretty to Gaze Upon Either In the Run Or on the Holiday Table.

If one Thanksgiving guest could eat a pound of turkey how many guests would 800 turkeys feed? Rounding the bend of the Stony Creek road, just beyond the Pine Orchard intersection one approaches, without warning, the simple Turkey Farm owned and operated by Mr. Roger Whipple and worked by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Whipple and their son. The latter prefers to play football.

Autumn began with an inventory of 900 birds on the three acre range but turkey dinners are no longer reserved for the festive Thanksgiving feast so the number has been reduced by one hundred. They are a noisy bunch, those 800 gobblers.

A year ago, during the season, the proprietor sold his entire flock, seeded down the range and ordered locally 1280 good stock turkey eggs to be hatched at a Connecticut hatchery.

At a day old the tiny turkeys were housed in the warm Whipple brooders, 950 strong, with a price on their heads of sixty cents each. Not until the fowl is ten weeks old is it permitted to leave the wires for fear of disease or contamination.

From ten weeks to six months the toms and hens strut about without a worry in the world. At the age of six months there are fewer plin feathers and more meat. From then on the bird dodges the axe for the Whipples sell: mostly retail, killing and dressing on the farm, for they raise for meat alone, not to breed or to show.

White Hollands, with handsome colored heads, throats and wattles dominate the range but gray Narragansetts and the better known Bronze varieties are evident although Mr. Whipple plans next year to raise only the beautiful White Hollands.

Inquisitive beings they are—and proud too—head erect they show off to each visitor who nears the high wire fence enclosure.

ADVISES TOXOID AND VACCINATION FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

The Indian Neck Parent Teacher Association met Thursday evening in the school with Mrs. Leo Finneman in charge. Mrs. Lella Prann and Miss Fern Mehagan of the Visiting Nurse Association were guests. Mrs. Prann spoke about the nurses' work with the school children, covering the care of the teeth and mouth, and of the body generally.

She advised parents to take advantage of vaccination for smallpox and the toxoid for diphtheria, now being dispensed at the Health Center. Only one tenth of the children in Branford schools, she said, have been vaccinated for smallpox. This might create a serious situation if an epidemic should occur. Tuberculosis tests should be taken, as this disease, if checked early, is curable.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. James Rourke, Mrs. Lewis Ritzinger and Mrs. Fred Houde.

TO A PROMISED LAND

Words cannot describe the inhuman cruelty of the National Socialist Party of Germany in the treatment of its racial and religious minorities; not only Jews but non-Aryan Christians as well.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER

Take three selectmen, an engineer, town counsel, P. W. A. officials and board of finance, multiply several days and nights, add costs of advertising, correspondence and incidentals, research and lawyers. Add one town meeting plus 3,285 registered voters, subtract 3133 who 'can't be bothered'. Divide into sections, and the result is 103-47.

FACTS OR FANCY

As the monopoly investigation gets underway in Washington, news dispatches from the Capitol indicate a divided opinion among those participating in the study on matters of procedure.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

Washington has an ample supply of food for thought this week. The thought analyzing exercise is not as unexciting as it sounds. It is a mental gymnastic of the capital, the results of a public poll on questions dealing with business reform has cropped up for them to think about.

MAKING TAXES SIMPLE

Government tax experts have been quick to reassure the paying public that whatever new taxes are levied next year will be 'simple'. They mean, of course, that the new tax will be simple for the taxpayer to compute.

TO ANSWER THE QUESTION

It is a question that has been asked many times over: "Why must we pay taxes?" The answer is simple: "We must pay taxes because we live in a society where we benefit from the services of others. Taxes are the means by which we contribute to the maintenance of these services."

THE MOVIE GUYED

HOT TIP FOR THE WEEK:

With weird tom toms thumping under the jungle moon of mysterious Africa, "Dark Rapture," a Universal release, comes to the Loew Poll College Theatre for one week starting today, Nov. 17.

This film is a picture record of scenes never before photographed and seldom seen by the eyes of the white man. For centuries the natives of the Congo have used all the craft in their power to keep secret their mystic rites by which the boys of their tribe become men. Every obstacle of jungle diplomacy and craft is brought into play to side-trace the would-be observer. Finally Armand Denis, noted Belgian explorer, his wife Lella Roosevelt Denis and LeRoy G. Phelps of New Haven were able to get through and shoot scenes of these thrilling ceremonies.

The wild dancing which shows plainly the barbaric origin of modern swing and Big Apple gyrations, hypnotic music tapped out on huge drums, the pygmy women who are so desirable as wives and workers to their normal sized neighbors that they are kidnapped from their tribes are all features of this film of inscrutable Africa, the continent of surprises.

The 2nd big feature on this same program is "The Affairs of Annabel," with Jack Oakie, Lucille Ball, and Ruth Donnelly.

Flavored with high-speed humor and side-splitting situations.

So successful was this production with advance audiences that a series has been based on "Annabel." "The Affairs of Annabel" revolves around the unexpected results of a series of imaginative exploits contrived by Oakie in his role of a rash press agent to publicize the studio's foremost star, played by Miss Ball.

Unfortunately these stunts have a habit of backfiring. To attract attention to a prison picture, Oakie has Lucille jailed, under an alias, promising reams of publicity upon her release a few days later. But real prison terms loom for the pair if the scheme is learned, and Lucille has to serve out her time for fear of exposure.

Supporting players headed by Bradley Page, Fritz Feld, Thurston Hall and Elizabeth Risdorn add to the mirth and excitements of the film.

TO OUR PATRONS:

The Loew Poll College Theatre takes great pleasure in announcing that the Movie Mystery Melodics Contest, a half hour of radio enjoyment is presented every Sunday at 1:30 p. m. on the stage of this theatre, in addition to our regular double feature bill. Doors open at 1:00 p. m. Come and enjoy an actual broadcast direct from our stage featuring Sy Byer's and his orchestra, Edith Jolson, and the 3 Lane Sisters.

Inspection Tour New Haven Open Forum

inating demonstration of how crude ore is transformed into valuable necessities for our every day life.

Upon entering the executive building, from where the public tour of inspection is started, I had the good fortune of meeting the genial James Walworth, who conducted Reginald Baldwin and myself to the director's room where we were shown the many, many products of the Malleable. I will not go into detail regarding these many forms of castings and their use because if you have been on this tour you have seen them, if you have not I urge you to do so and enjoy a first hand thrill that no printed word picture can give. Like the resident of Niagara Falls who speculated as to what caused the continuous thundering noise that he had heard for years. He was told that less than a mile from his home was Nature's eighth wonder of the world... the mighty Niagara, and upon viewing it for the first time stood stupefied and amazed but finally exclaimed, "Wonderful." I know this man very well and I assure you that he is very intelligent and in his own respective field he is outstanding. I wonder how many folks in Branford and its vicinity have not taken advantage of the M. I. F.'s public invitation to see this gigantic foundry in operation. And, too, I wonder how many, when finally they do witness the miracles wrought within a short distance of their doorsteps, will not feel prompted to exclaim "wonderful!"

I understand that Malleable's plant occupies more than ten acres of land. This I do not doubt because from the time we left the Director's room until we came out of the aluminum foundry we witnessed what seemed an endless chain of interesting enlightenments in the field of modern revelations. I was not the least fatigued when the tour was ended. I had not at any time been discomforted by gaseous odors or dust particles during my visit. In fact I was amazed that any building could carry on such a gigantic handling of ore that was heated to a temperature of greater than 2800 degrees and yet provide uncontaminated air as fresh and wholesome as that in the unrestricted fields of our countryside. I later learned that the Malleable is one of America's leading factories in protecting the health of its employees. From the time a man or woman enters for the day's labors until they emerge at the end of their toil, everything possible is done to safeguard their health and improve the environments in which they work. For instance the women's recreation rooms are as clean and beautiful as those in the impressive metropolitan clubs. There are tables for their lunch period and a gas range for the simple preparation of hot lunches.

The men's quarters and wash room are equipped with air conditioned individual lockers and a huge bath with a long line of showers. The water supply to this bath is automatically controlled so that no bather is in danger of being scalded. And, too, to further insure the cleanliness and comforts of the workers, tubs are provided for clothes washing and rinsing. A huge hot-air drier is maintained for the completion of the laundering. I understand that another room of this nature is being added for the convenience of the employees. I had the pleasure of talking to several of the men, men who seemed tireless in their tasks of doing their work well, in various departments of the foundry. All were enthusiastic in their praise of conditions in the plant. Especially was I keenly interested in learning from them of the apportionment of employment all during the selge of business depression. The company, in its pursuit of fair play to all its employees, when business could not justify a full working schedule, split up the work amongst the workers instead of laying off employees. This humanitarian work insurance adaptation has kept the Malleable employees from the relief rolls and maintained everyone of them in their rights of independence and family security.

Today the Malleable Iron is more than just a foundry with a machine shop attached. It is really a metallurgical institution which can produce the most intricate articles from any kind of metal. Tuesday, November 22, will be your next opportunity to enjoy a visit to the M. I. F. I again urge you to make this interesting tour of inspection. The first group will start thru the foundry at 1:30.

The Branford Garden Club will hold its annual Christmas sale December 8th in the home of Mrs. Harry Smith, Averill Place.

Audrey Schwanfelder, Mill Plain has been ill at her home.

Meeting Votes

Selectmen Bradley, when asked if such a high expenditure was necessary answered that every year during his administration serious wash-outs had occurred requiring maintenance expenditures running into varied amounts. The cost of repairing the present situation would go beyond the maintenance figures and the selectmen would have to ask for a special appropriation. Property owners at that section of Short Beach claimed no direct benefit from the wall but were in favor of its adoption. Among those who were given the floor were: T. Holmes Bracken, J. Wesson Phelps, T. C. Bracken, Albert Hillman, Albert Tucker, Herbert Dickerman, Terry Morehouse, Gurdon Bradley, Charles Terhune, John Barnes and Louis C. Burckhart.

INCORPORATES The Branford Construction Co. was incorporated Nov. 1 with Capital stock $50,000, divided into 5,000 shares of $10 each. Incorporators: Anthony Bartone, Pasquale Bartone and Thomas Ferrone, all of Hartford.
