Edna Ferber's 'Stage Door' Opens Chapel Playhouse Summer Theatre Season

Charles Farrell Will Appear Later In Revival Of "Seventh Heaven" With Louise Platt Cast In Role Of Diane.

The Chapel Playhouse will open its season in Guilford with one of the most popular plays ever seen on Broadway, "Stage Door" by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber. Louise Platt, who is one of the rising young actresses of Hollywood ever since her portrayal of the Army Officer's wife in "Stagecoach," will have the star part of Terry Randall. The cast is probably the largest ever to be seen on the Chapel Playhouse stage and numbers twenty-eight Broadway thespians. Hardie Albright, noted motion picture actor who will direct at Guilford all season, has been casting and rehearsing the play in New York in preparation of the opening, Monday, June 26.

"Stage Door" will run until Saturday, July 1, and the cast includes Alan Handley, Robert Crane, Olive Warren, Jean Platt, Luau Adair, Wilma Francis, Peter Van Buren, Homer Miles and Edward Franz. Sylvia Lupas also will be in the company and will play the part she originated in the Broadway production, that of Olga Brandt.

Charles Farrell has just been signed to appear in person the week of July 17 in a revival of "Seventh Heaven." The Chapel Playhouse selected this play for the movie festival as it was in the picture version that Mr. Farrell made his greatest hit. Louise Platt will be cast in the role of Diane, the part that made Janet Gaynor famous.

The Chapel Playhouse, unlike some theatres, does not believe in making premature announcements of stars until they are actually signed and it is because of this policy there is no mention of Charles Farrell in their current advertising literature now being circulated.

Never torturing its prey a mink can kill an animal three times its size. It matters not how long a mink is given food and care it never loses its wild instinct to become a pet to be handled without heavy rubber or canvas gloves.

Anniversary Of Christ Church Observed Sun.

The 150th anniversary of Christ Church parish was observed Sunday and a program of considerable interest arranged for the day. Although an Episcopal society was formed in East Haven as early as March, 1789 that the church building was begun. The framework for the present structure was raised April 23 of that year and it was June 18 when Samuel Forbes dedicated the land occupied by the church to the society and services were held. In 1810 Bishop Abraham Jarvis, the second bishop of Connecticut, dedicated the church. At two different periods additions were made to the building. In 1845 the "Queen Anne Tower" was added and in 1897 the structure was completed to its present capacity.

At the 8 a. m. holy communion service Sunday the vessels of 1817 were used. At the 11 a. m. service there were morning prayer and dedication of gifts and memorials.

Taking part with the rector, Rev. Alfred Clark were Rev. Nile W. Hearmans and Rev. J. H. Jackson, former rectors and the Rt. Rev. Bishop Arthur Lea. In the evening at 7:30 the preacher was the Rev. T. H. Evans, rector of Trinity Church, New Haven, with neighboring clergy assisting. The choir of St. Paul's in Wallingford combined with the senior choir for the evening service.

A reception and tea was held for the congregation and friends from 5 to 7 p. m. on the rectory grounds in High street with Mrs. S. E. Page as convener of the committee.

Among the gifts dedicated were green hangings for lantern and pupil, given by the Women's Guild; green chalice cover and bursae, given by the Girls' Friendly Society; and set of colored markers for the communion service books, given in memory of Spt. E. T. Child by Miss I. Reynolds.

VACATION

Yes, once more the vacation season is here. And no more lovely and restful place can be found in which to spend one's vacation than at the Short Beach. If this happens to be the first of a series of visits, it is well to take an hour or two in advance to go to the Branford Library and get a little book called "Vacation and Character at Granite Bay," by Bishop Goodell. He used to have a summer place in what is called Rockland Park, and for many years was one of our most honored and respected summer residents. He draws a delightful picture of the people of Short Beach as it was in the days of his youth. He tells many interesting things about the natural beauties of the place.

The woods are full of birds and squirrels and wild flowers, and the geological story of this region is so fascinating one. If you can get a vacation that will rest both body and mind, you are fortunate indeed and should make the most of it. But like to bring your children here for

I cannot enthuse very much about church vacations and Sunday School vacations. We do not take many vacations from eating or sleeping. If you have anything at all, it is something that fills a daily need. Not a great many people go to church with such regularity that they get exhausted by so doing. I doubt if many people spend so much time in reading their Bibles and praying that they honestly feel the need of a vacation from such things. There are 168 hours in a week. Will it seriously break up to go to the office of a minister in the house of God on Sunday? With the present long day, is there not time enough for visiting, games, picnic and other recreations of the week? Here is another reason for attending church at Short Beach. Here is a church that is unique in that it is absolutely undenominational. People of various church affiliations worship together here in perfect harmony. It shows how easy church union is in some cases. The Short Beach Union Chapel is the only Protestant church within two miles of the city of New Haven. Its presence and example will greatly encourage these fine Short Beach people to keep this church open all summer and winter. You would not be surprised to find that it should make the most of it. But like to bring your children here for

PAUL REVIEWS HIS LIFE
Next Sunday's lesson closes a three month's study of the life of the Apostle Paul, one of the greatest men who ever lived. As he looked back from the prison cell in which he awaited the death which he knew must come soon, he gloried in the hardships through which he had come to understand and rely upon the ever present help and strengthening of the God "whose he was and whom he served." Contemplating such a life, one can hardly help wondering if we of this generation are not making a mistake in putting so much emphasis upon "social security." Most of the great and influential people of whom we read and hear have at some time in their lives endured hardships and overcome great difficulties. May it not be that these things are essential to the development of real character? May we not be doing an injury to our children when we make life too easy for them, and try to shield them from every kind of difficulty? At least we should think seriously about this matter.

TIPS

When mending sweaters, use a needle instead of a needle. It will weave in and out much easier and do much more satisfactory work.

When cutting flowers always use a sharp knife and cut stems in a diagonal fashion. Add fresh water each day and keep in a cool place if night.

Before putting away the baby's bottles for the summer soak them in "bleach," which is a solution of 1/2 cup of bleach to 1 gallon of water. This will keep them from becoming rancid and will also keep them from becoming rancid.

EUROPEAN CONDITIONS

Certainly present conditions in Europe cannot be described as tranquil. But many think that the possibility of war in the near future has materially lessened.

A report that Hitler plans to make a definite offer of peace to France, Britain and the U.S. in return for sweeping colonial territorial concessions, has gained credence in high quarters here and abroad. And recent from London indicates that the Chamberlain government may be seeking passive ways and means of providing Hitler with the "living space" he asks for.

The enigma of Russia grows more complex. The refusal of the Soviet to join with France and England in a mutual security pact, unless the latter countries would accept Russia's stringent terms to the latter, came with a shock to the European democracies, which had looked to the early completion of an entente. But Moscow still turns a willing, if skeptical ear, to London and Paris, and the hope of alliance remains strong.

In this country, sentiment in favor of "isolation" seems to have grown, now that the first emotion of horror at Hitler's advent has abated. And there is a fair chance that Congress will eventually enact neutrality with teeth in it.

In the meantime, the army rolls increase and the navy lays new keels, as we build the greatest peace-time defensive war machine in our history.

LET GEORGE DO IT

Father Flanagan is faced with a serious problem.

Boys' Town is the victim of a misapprehension which exists in the minds of people generally throughout the country.

Father Flanagan says, "I was sure that many people, after seeing the motion picture featuring Spencer Tracy, would become interested in Boys' Town. For that reason I did not seek a royalty or other compensation from the producers."

But now Father Flanagan is discouraged because everyone seems to take it for granted that every one else is sending money to Boys' Town.

The situation is further complicated because the publicity of the picture has increased the number of applications for admission.

During the past 22 years thousands of delinquent, destitute, homeless boys have been provided with a home, given an education, taught a useful trade, and have been reared in their own religious beliefs.

When they leave Boys' Town they take their pieces as honorable, self-sustaining citizens.

The organization receives no assistance from any church, city, state or community chest.

Father Flanagan is not a "superman" who is able to get whatever Boys' Town need. Unfortunately that is not the case.

His whole life has been dedicated to this work because it is the greatest contribution he can make to a better America and a better world.

A DIME TOLL

Those who may object to paying the toll on the Merritt Parkway have the privilege, of course, of taking any other route, principally U. S. No. 1, from the New York State line through as far east as she or he may desire to travel.

Tolls are not proposed where parallel routes are lacking. There are other courses for folks to travel in Connecticut which will not be taxed.

Tolls are quaint and colonial experience may be paid too far. Here and there in odd days a toll bridge or road fall into disuse but in these modern times it is worth a dime to use the $21,500,000 Merritt Parkway.

The toll charge is expected to raise $500,000 annually. There is no discrimination against non-residents. Connecticut users of the highway will pay one through toll and again through a portion of what they pay into the state highway fund annually.

Connecticut motorists who do not use it will pay towards it through the highway fund.

Twist of the Wrist. A game of horseshoes is the only sport some hosts have to offer. It is a good lure, for not everyone plays golf or tennis and nobility filled. But why is this money-accumulated by the savings of the average citizen—stagnant in banks? There is a reason, and it is as simple as adding two and two.

No investor, large or small, puts his money into anything unless there is a fair chance of some profit. If the investor can see no prospect for a profit, or, in fact lacks any assurance that the money will even be returned without a profit, then this investor is likely to put that money in his sock, or under his mattress, and wait until there is a better risk. In this case, the banks have been entrusted with the savings of the average citizen, and because the banks cannot find reasonable prospects for profit in investment, the banks are keeping the savings in "their sock," so to speak.

But why is there so little chance for profit from an investment? That reason is just as simple. It is because business enterprises are so heavily burdened with taxes and expenses arising from complicated government requirements that nothing is left for profits to the investors who risk their savings.

If some of the deterrents can be removed, and some assurance given that there is a reasonable chance for profit, then investment will be stimulated and recovery will indeed seem more in prospect. That is a job for these day-makers.

The Invisible Collector. The old adage gloomily opines that "nothing is certain except death and taxes." Many persons have questioned the second "certainly," pretending that they pay no taxes because they own no property and pay no income tax.

Actually, though, about the only individuals who have escaped that second "certainly" are those who have run about of the first-death.

And it seems strange indeed that, in the face of all facts to the contrary, any American is able to deceive himself into thinking he avoids taxes, for everywhere the individual citizen goes, an invisible tax collector is as close as his heels as his own shadow. In fact, out of every dollar gathered in by government, almost 60 cents is in the form of hidden taxes, mainly paid by people with small incomes.

Mr. Average Citizen pays the money out a few cents at a time, as an added charge on virtually everything he buys, seldom realizing how rapidly the total mounts up into dollars and keeps him from buying most of the good things of life that he would like to.

Since taxes are mostly invisible today, it is hard to make them a burning issue in public affairs. But with their burden constantly mounting, the average American is beginning to reach the stage where he wishes devoutly that not only would the collector become a little more "invisible," but some of the taxes themselves would also "do the vanishing act."

The Right to Bite. It is a tradition of long standing that one bite does not condemn the dog that does the biting. This canine privilege of trying his teeth may almost be considered imbedded in the common law.

His standing has been confirmed again by the Senate of New York State. That body turned down a bill which would make dog owners liable for damages if the dog should bite once.

TILL DEBT DUE US PART

Self-investigation is growing in popularity around Washington. First to try it, of course, were the WPA. When serious charges were made against the relief spending agency several months ago, the WPA immediately set out to investigate itself. The result if you haven't already anticipated the answer, was a refutation of the charges. Said the WPA: "These charges are not true. We have carefully investigated ourselves and our verdict is 'not guilty.'"

Now the AAA, the pow-under practitioner, has set out to play the role of defendant, defender, prosecutor, judge and jury all at the same time. In other words, it is another self-investigation. The charges here, as in WPA, center about political activity by government agents and the use of Federal funds for political attainment.

As some at the Capitol see this self-investigation practice, it even overshadows the dual accomplishments of the National Labor Relations Board which has three hundred years ago visual education has gone forward. But the greatest strides have been made since a pupil was first taught to read.

Ever since the first crude illustrations used by Comenius in the original method's picture book nearly three hundred years ago visual education has gone forward. But the greatest strides have been made since a pupil was first taught to read.

Practically every subject can be taught in this manner. England was a land of fogs; France was noted for gay night life; beer drinking was the principal industry of Germany; Italy was a land of sunshine, song and opera. These were the impressions I gained of European countries during my school years which were not corrected until many years later. In school I gained practically no real conception of the various countries and their peoples under the old dry methods of teaching geography.

Today, in schools, where visual methods are employed with text-book and the teacher's spoken word. However, visual education has found its greatest success as a supplementary form of instruction in those schools of our public schools.

With the motoring season here and with a probably substantial increase in traffic just ahead this spring and summer due to the New York World's Fair, the New Haven Railroad to day advertises Connecticut motor vehicle operators to exercise due caution in approaching and traversing railroad grade crossings.

Reasonable care on the part of the automobile driver by the observance of signs and other warning devices located at public crossings at grade should have a material effect in further reducing accidents at grade crossings.

The Parish Guild of Zion Episcopal Church is planning an Independence Day food sale at the Center on the church lawn. The usual fine variety of home baking and salads and refreshments will be on sale and also several kitchen accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Burton and their family of Weymouth, Pa. have rented Home Place, Stony Creek for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bishop and son, Randolph are at Camp Madava, Northfield, Vermont for a week.

Fire Warden James R. Willis of Sanford St., East Haven is attending a three-day convention of the New England Fire Chiefs' Association being held in Providence, Rhode Island.

learning less tedious and enables them to cover more ground in a shorter space of time. In engineering, science and chemistry, animated drawings (we mean them by the name of Mickey Mouse) play an important part. Complex motions and reactions can be studied by means of animated drawings as in no other way.

Think how business executives would be handicapped if it were not for diagrams, charts and graphs—all visual aids designed to give information at a glance. Studying a graph for a minute or two will give as much information as hours of study with pages of dry statistics.

Even these charts and graphs have been modernized. Instead of the usual "pie" charts and bar and line graphs we have what is known as pictorial statistics. Instead of cold figures and numbers, there is destruction, for instance, each million bags of coffee is illustrated by a small simply drawn bag of coffee. If four and a half million bags of coffee were destroyed in a given year the fact can be stated in graphic form in this way: The chart would be headed "Coffee Destruction." Underneath would appear the year followed by drawings of four and a half bags of coffee. At the bottom of the chart would be the key such as "Each bag represents one million bags of coffee."

Seriously though, education, if it is real, should prepare the student for life as he finds it upon graduation. Too often this is not the case but the increasing use of visual aids is doing much to overcome this one great failure of education. Visual aids, if properly used, can go far to preserve democracy. By bringing new life to the curriculum and dramatizing it in terms of real life situations can young men and women be trained out of our educational institutions with a desire for something more tangible than come pages, cheap movies, and baseball scores.

Fewer pupils than usual graduated from the New Haven High Schools from North Branford this year. Among the graduates were the Messrs. Esie Forte, Adeline Caputo, Dorothy Kearney, Claire Broymann, Joseph Marrone from Hillhouse and Miss Edna Hart from Commercial High School.

Think how business executives would be handicapped if it were not for diagrams, charts and graphs—all visual aids designed to give information at a glance. Studying a graph for a minute or two will give as much information as hours of study with pages of dry statistics.

Even these charts and graphs have been modernized. Instead of the usual "pie" charts and bar and line graphs we have what is known as pictorial statistics. Instead of cold figures and numbers, there is destruction, for instance, each million bags of coffee is illustrated by a small simply drawn bag of coffee. If four and a half million bags of coffee were destroyed in a given year the fact can be stated in graphic form in this way: The chart would be headed "Coffee Destruction." Underneath would appear the year followed by drawings of four and a half bags of coffee. At the bottom of the chart would be the key such as "Each bag represents one million bags of coffee."

Seriously though, education, if it is real, should prepare the student for life as he finds it upon graduation. Too often this is not the case but the increasing use of visual aids is doing much to overcome this one great failure of education. Visual aids, if properly used, can go far to preserve democracy. By bringing new life to the curriculum and dramatizing it in terms of real life situations can young men and women be trained out of our educational institutions with a desire for something more tangible than come pages, cheap movies, and baseball scores.

learning less tedious and enables them to cover more ground in a shorter space of time. In engineering, science and chemistry, animated drawings (we mean them by the name of Mickey Mouse) play an important part. Complex motions and reactions can be studied by means of animated drawings as in no other way.

Meanderings of a Book Worm

Remember back a summer or two when Junior was so engrossed in sea-weeds and shells that he would scarcely take time out to eat?

Well, we are settled at the cottage for five weeks and our son is occupying himself by reading Percy A. Morris' book "Whit Still is What?" This book fills the need for a pocket manual for the amateur naturalist that will give a foundation knowledge of the clams and snails of both salt and fresh waters and of the land snails as well.

Morris is on the staff of the Peabody Museum, New Haven. Bird Biographies is a new guide-book Junior also brought home from the library when Jimmie Baehr next door described the strange birds over on the meadows in the back of the house.

Will Americans lose the use of their legs? You will learn things about walking that you never dreamed about in book called "The Art of Walking" edited by Edwin Valentine Mitchell of Hartford. Paddy has been reading it and has come to the hard conclusion that walking is cheap transportation.

Since then I find in her home "Beautiful Canada" by Vernon Quinn "Romantic and Historic Virginia" night for rehearsal of music and marching drill Earl B. Colter will be in charge.

Persons living in the Totoket and North Branford Center sections of town are invited to use the North-Branford Library on Tuesday, and if it is impossible for anyone living along Forest Road to reach the library during the hours of 12:30 to 4:30, books will be drawn by the librarian for them and may be called for at the home of the librarian.

THE MOVIE GUYED

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP:

Norma Shearer wearing an interesting ensemble of cowgirl for her role in the dupe ranch sequence of "The Women." Spencer Tracy consenting to present special awards at the commencement exercises of Loyola University. Lew Ayres catching up on the sun tan he didn't get during his European vacation. Mickey Rooney treating the cast of "Babes in Arms" with freezers of ice cream. Greta Garbo driving her own car to work for her new starring role in "Ninotchka." Anni Rutherford receiving a letter a day from a sailor in the United States Navy. He has been a fan of the little actress for two years.

HOT TIPS FOR THE WEEK:

Ten midgets appearing with Johnny Weismuller and Maureen O'Sullivan in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" now playing at the Loew Palladium Theatre for a second big week, may be small but they're not dumb. When the first high wind hit China Male while the company was on location, it blew midgets in all directions. They had to grab tree trunks, automobiles and everything stationary to keep from being blown out of a day's work. An hour later when a sixty-foot high "twister" hit the location scattering chairs, parallels, camera and lamps, the midgets dove for individual little cyclone collars that they had dug.

It took a studio property department two months to find fourteen ostrich eggs that were kept on ice in the studio commissary awaiting a domestic scene between Maureen O'Sullivan and Johnny Weismuller in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" It seems that ostriches lay eggs only once or twice a year, so the prop men had to scour the "ostrich world" for the supply. They weighed from two to three pounds each, and the shells were so tough that Miss O'Sullivan had to use a stone hatchet to crack them.

The second big feature on the same program is "Bridal Suite" featuring Annabella and Robert Young and with every member of the supporting cast a laugh headliner. They consist of Walter Connolly, Reginald Owen, Gene Lockhart, Arthur Treacher, Billie Burke, Virginia Field and Felix Bressart. See you in the movies. Your Movie Guyed.

to headquarters in Hartford, and some of it directly to the toll station on the Merritt Parkway. The fare, ten cents per vehicle irrespective of the number of occupants, is hoped, will be readily available to those who use the Parkway so that the necessity of change money may for the present be reduced to the minimum, although the toll keepers will be prepared to make change to a reasonable amount.

On two occasions representatives of the Money Meters, Inc. in Providence, R. I. have been at the Highway Department headquarters in Hartford instructing the toll collectors relative to the operation of the money meters. In all cases the ten cent toll charge will be deposited in the money meter by the user of the Parkway. In no case will any of the toll collectors be permitted to make such deposit. In the event it is necessary for any of the toll collectors to make change, the ten cents will be handed to the payee who, himself or herself, will deposit the coin in the money meter. The toll collector will register the payment and the payee will be duly notified of the proper reception of said coin by the ringing of a bell.

The present station is temporary and is located approximately 8100 feet east of the Connecticut-New York line. Adequate signs have been installed notifying the users of the Parkway that toll will be collected a certain distance ahead, the first signs being 1000 feet east or west of the toll station.

Toll operators on the Parkway will work on three shifts—8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p. m., from 4:00 p. m. to 12:00 p. m., and from 12:00 p. m. to 8:00 a. m. At all times the Parkway will be patrolled by State Police in addition to the extra service indicated at the present time.

The Supervisor of each of the toll collectors will be placed under adequate bond and proper insurance has been placed by the State Comptroller for the protection of all interests.

The law provides, of course, that all State owned cars shall be exempt and for this purpose special marker plates are being prepared.

Mrs. J. J. Meyer of Fort Wayne, Ind. is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Caruso of Edward Street, East Haven.

Miss Attilia Broessler of Mt. Vernon, N. Y. was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Warner V. Hollister, Holly's Barn, Post Road.

East Haven Fire Department No. 1 meets in firehouse.
Dawn Dance, Bradford Manor Fire Company

Mr. Frank Welland who has recently graduated from college, is visiting the plant for a few days for observation of the manufacture of malleable iron pipe fitting. Mr. Welland is the son of Mr. Carl Welland, the manager of one of the most progressive jobbing houses of the middle states, The Central Supply Co. of Indianapolis. This company is one of M.I.F.'s largest and oldest customers, which Ernie Rowe placed on books back in the old days. No doubt the success of the jobbing house has a great deal to do with their determination to educate the new comers into the business along practical lines, for it is a rare coincidence these days to find a seller with any knowledge of pipe fittings other than a discount sheet. We wish Frank Welland the same success as that of his father.

April 25th, but we understand will be back with us soon.
Sigmond Prusky of Pent Road, Branford Hill, is starting a poultry farm with 1000 chicks. Good luck.

Some interesting experiments are being made in the Galvanizing Department, which may lead to the complete abandonment of the use of acid pickle before the hot dip. Already one acid bath has been given up and if the present experiments are successful we can all hope to give Branford a cleaner river and better fishing.

R.H. Page, foreman of the Pattern Department is having an enjoyable vacation in East Northfield, Mass. "Give me my boots and saddle!" The sight of seeing some of the good horsemen of the town driving up Brushy Plain Road gave Anthony Domkoski an inspiration. Tony as he is better known went to his lot and jumped on the back of his horse for a ride. All went well for a time until the horse rebelled and Tony suffered a bruised elbow. Tony who is Foreman of the Cleaning Department is now having a week's vacation in Westfield, Mass.

Announcement has recently been made of the marriage of Miss Joyce Cudgma of East Haven to Mr. Arnold Vincent Noble of Branford. They will reside on Woodland Ave. Branford.
Cosmo Carullo's son, Paul who is home from college for the summer was a disappointed boy to find no work. Paul, however, cannot be downed, and has obtained permission to observe operation in the Plant. We hope that he will collect points to help him in his mechanical engineering course.

The Sportsman Club held the first picnic of the season at Dominic Bontatibus' grove on the Twin Lakes Road. Quilts and cards were enjoyed, followed by a fine clambake, prepared by Frank Quinn and George Hansen. This club was organized one and one half years ago with a limited membership of fifteen. Those belonging to the club are: Morris Montellus, Emil Montellus, Joe Ikonovich, Samuel Beach Gabriel Barba, Harold Tousey, Walter Cunliff, Mortimer Wall, Frank Woodford, William Kremsor, George Hansen, Ossie Warner, Bob Robinson, Dominic Bontatibus and Frank Quinn.

June Russell of Lanphier's Cove is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Babcock of Clear Lake, North Branford.
