Yale University Retires Director of Athletic Association Publicity

Paul Barnett of Rockland Park Placed On Retired List After 19 Years of Sports Publicity — Was Important Factor in Cordial Relations With Public Press.

Yale University has announced that Paul Barnett, of Rockland Park, for the last 19 years director of publicity of the Athletic Association, has been placed on the university's retired list, effective June 30.

Mr. Barnett came to Yale at the opening of college in the fall of 1923. He organized a sports publicity department which has been an important factor in the cementing of cordial relations between the athletic association and the newspapers of the country, and he was the first trained newspaperman to head such a department in any university in the East. Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth followed in establishing such bureaus with trained newspapermen in charge. Mr. Barnett had 20 years of newspaper experience before coming to Yale, and among the positions he held were the following: city editor of The New Haven Register; City editor of the New Haven Journal-Courier; managing editor of the old New Haven Palladium; managing editor of The New Haven Times-Leader, which position he resigned when he was called to Yale; and night editor and day editor in the Connecticut Bureau of the Associated Press. For 16 years he was Yale and New Haven correspondent of the New York Herald before its merger with the Tribune.

For the past nine years, the retiring director was editor and publisher of the Yale Football programs, books that set a high standard in this particular field.

He was graduated from Taft School, Watertown, in 1897.

Ogden Miller, in commenting on Mr. Barnett's retirement, said, "Paul Barnett's retirement as director of publicity for the Yale Athletic Association after 19 years, takes from the scene a man known to thousands of followers of Yale sports. He has had the personal and professional friendship of countless sports editors and sports writers and has earned their affection and total respect. My personal associations with him have been a source of benefit and pleasure, and the regret one feels at his retirement is tempered by the knowledge of his continued friendship and counsel."

Builders Warned About Improper Sewage Disposal

Dr. A. S. McQueen, health officer calls attention to the following bulletin issued by the State Department of Health:

Local ordinances prohibiting construction of houses unless water supply and sewage disposal facilities are approved protect builders and purchasers of homes outside urban areas as well as the population at large. Warren J. Scott, Director, Bureau of Sanitary Engineering said in the weekly broadcast of the State Department of Health.

It is well to consider the following points regarding these facilities in outlying districts, according to Mr. Scott:

Water supplies are usually obtained from wells and springs. Aside from the question of quantity of water that may be available in dry weather, there should be considered its nearness to sewage disposal systems; avoidance of locations where the slope is downhill from the sewage disposal system to the water supply; the possibility of a well or spring may be flooded at times of high water in nearby streams; protection of the top of the well against surface drainage; and the tightness of the top of the well casing.

If water under pressure is available, water flush toilets are usually installed and sanitary disposal must be provided. Disposal facilities should not be located too close to wells and springs used for water supply; septic tanks should be of adequate size and accessible for cleaning; and the overflow from septic tanks must usually be disposed of by seepage into the ground. This may be difficult if there is underlying rock, tight soil or high water table.

GIVE A HAND TO THE SAWYERS

The work of clearing away the trees and underbrush at the site of the new observation Post has proceeded far enough so that Irwin Morton's men can start the actual construction. Volunteers who have worked with the Chief Observer with axes, saws and bush hooks so far are Ernest Albertine, Stephen Bombolski, Arthur Hollman, John Buck, Fred Blucker, Irwin Morton and Flanders Smith. There is still considerable more work of this kind to be done, and the Chief Observer would like to see more volunteers next Saturday and Sunday. There is no reason why a very few should do all the work.

Third And Last Young Peoples Concert Sat.

Saturday afternoon, March 14 at Woolsey Hall the New Haven Symphony Orchestra will present the third and last of this season's series of Concerts for Young People. Conductor Harry Berman, who has directed these special performances since their start some years ago, will again take the stand for his usual double duty of leading the Orchestra in the making of music and the audience in the appreciation of it.

The programs this season have been devoted to a demonstration of the variety and value of symphonic music. The previous concerts have shown the various types of concert compositions and examples of the work of the greatest composers. The program this Saturday will suggest the wide range of a symphony orchestra under the general subject of "Contrast in Music." Mr. Berman has selected pieces differing widely in scope and structure, "Der Freischütz" by Weber, the finale from Mozart's "Symphony in D", a waltz, "Valse Triste" by Sibelius, a tone poem, "The Swan" by Camille Saint-Saens, and "The Swan" by Camille Saint-Saens. For these last two numbers the Orchestra will be assisted by Commercial High School Chorus under the direction of Honora Rexford.

PATRICK A. BURKE DIES IN STAMFORD

The death of Patrick A. Burke, formerly of this place, occurred Monday in Stamford following an illness of three years. He was 80 years of age and was born in Stamford, a son of John Burke and Bridget Gibbs. He was an inspector for the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Co. and moved to Stamford at the time the factory moved from here.

Surviving him are nieces and nephews, Miss Mae O'Neil of Chestnut Street, whom he often visited, Mrs. Philip McKeon, William O'Neil, both of this place; Thomas O'Neil of Meriden and Joseph O'Neil of New Haven.

PICTURES OF BATTERY BOYS

Several people identified local boys in a news photo appearing this week in a New York newspaper taken in parts unknown.

Satisfactory progress is reported by those in charge of emergency medical relief stations being set-up about town to administer relief in the event of disaster.

In as much as it is impossible to report the progress of all stations at one time the several set-ups will be given attention as space permits and doctors and chairmen complete organization plans.

Shore Beach, because of its premature start is one of the first to announce its personnel.

When Dr. A. S. McQueen, chairman of the Civilian Defense Medical division, and Dr. Levy, appointed to the Shore Beach Emergency unit, checked the work already done, they found that unit working ahead of schedule.

Some time ago Mrs. Franklin Burdige voluntarily called a meeting of the nurses of the community and invited Mrs. James Walworth, chairman of the Red Cross, to explain how they could be of service.

In addition to his position with the Red Cross, Dr. Blanchard has been appointed by the Selectmen to act as Dr. McQueen's co-chairman for the civilian defense medical committee.

About the same time Mrs. Sedgewick Allen, graduate nurse, received an appointment from Dr. McQueen to organize all emergency centers and to organize all emergency supplies and materials.

The result has been that the Red Cross has furnished a large box of supplies placed in the chapel and the nurses are making arrangements to have emergency boxes placed in the following locations:

- Double Beach, home of Mrs. John Oros, nurses' assistant.
- Granite Bay, Bay View Store, Mrs. Edward Evis and Mrs. Joseph Grubb, nurses' assistants.
- School, P.T.A. room.
- Mrs. Franklin Burdige, nurses' assistant.
- Union Chapel, Red Cross box.
- Mrs. Victor Hutchinson, graduate.
- Highland and Rockland Parks, Johnson's Boat House; Mrs. John McClees and Mrs. Louise Hart, graduates, Mrs. John Buck and Mrs. Myrtle Pierson, nurses' assistants.

Identification tags and stretchers are but a part of the supplies on hand. When the doctors inspect the emergency kits it is possible they may ask for additional equipment but so far they are supplied with standard emergency needs.

Through the efforts of George Fouser, a member of the housing committee, Wallace Foote has made his store in Main Street available for storage.

Many of the articles required are simply listed but will not be called in unless there is an emergency. On the other hand there are several people who preferred to send their coats, blankets, pillows and other medical supplies to the storage center.

Should disaster strike, the nurses, all registered with Dr. Dana Blanchard's Red Cross emergency relief group, will transport the pieces in storage direct to Union Chapel.

Dr. McQueen and Levy have inspected the route of transportation and the chapel building and found them satisfactory. The chapel has the requirements for an emergency hospital set-up.

As civilians complete Red Cross First Aid courses, their names are listed at the defense office and names of Shore Beach certificate holders are being assigned to work with nurses here.

Mrs. Allen said last evening that she feels that her committee is very able to render valuable community aid and assistance to Dr. Levy.

DEFENSE NEWS

What's doing about town?
Mostly defense news, is the answer. Clubs and societies, fire companies and their auxiliaries are either studying defense subjects or planning programs around the national, state or local defense.

PREPARE FOR ADJUSTMENT

National Boys and Girls Week will be celebrated throughout the United States from April 25 to May 2. The celebration this year is more important than ever before because now that the United States is at war it is the duty of each citizen to prepare boys and girls for the period of adjustment during and following the war.

From Our Readers

Dear Review Editor:
Before we let salvage hunters dig up abandoned trolley rails it seems to me we might need to ask the trolley company to use them again.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Have you filed your Federal income tax return? If you come within the group from whom returns are required, you have only until Feb. 15 to file a return. Single persons who earned as much as $14,245 a year for 52 weeks of 4 1/2 months had returns together with their earnings of 25 months and a loss of $2,824 man-hours of labor in 1941.

ITS UNPatriotic

With all the Rationing of Automobiles, Tires and Gasoline, the public is full aware of the necessity of keeping their cars in tip top shape and to make the old buggy last as long as possible. So we ask you, is it necessary at this time in our history for the duration of the war to have an Automobile Inspection Service?

TONY SARG

Tony Sarg was an artist, playwright, poet, versatile although he is at home with brush, pen and chisel and with his pen.

A BOOMING BUSINESS

His little clowns on strings made such irresistible appeal to the children that the puppets promptly threw off their dust and found themselves in demand on all sides. Tony Sarg had introduced a new and imaginative element into the school at a time when experimentation was the order of the day.

GOOD-BY, OLD MUG

The modern barber shop, dressed in mirrors, chromium, white tile, and high-heeled oil-lamps, lacks on a decorative touch that would warm the hearts of many old-timers. That is the rack on the wall filled with gold-lathered shaving mugs belonging to the substantial citizens of this town.

DEAR DIARY

We Americans can win this war. We can win it by making weapons that turn the tide against the Axis. And we are making them faster and faster every day, for more and more plants are being brought to war work.

BROKEN PROMISES

In spite of the promises made in December that strikes would be curtailed for the duration of the war, America's vitalty needed by production is being hampered by walk-outs. At a time when every hour of work counts more than ever before, men are dropping their tools and leaving their jobs.

OUR DEMOCRACY

"That love of freedom, that vigor, that fearlessness in the presence of sudden peril or foe which are the gift of the sea to its sons."

OUR DEMOCRACY

It is felt that the Government should follow the lead of other countries and abolish this type of tax entirely, because experience has shown that it discourages the investment of unproductive business enterprises. The Boland Bill, by setting a flat rate of 10 per cent on the net capital gains of both individuals and corporations, is hailed as a step in the right direction.

OUR DEMOCRACY

Propponents point out that the lower rate of taxation together with other corrective provisions of the bill will encourage transfers. This means that, although the rate is lower, there will be more taxable transactions. The result will be, according to experts, an estimated increase in revenue from $80,000,000 to $300,000,000 annually.

OUR DEMOCRACY

Sound waves inaudible to the human ear are being used to homogenize milk and ice cream. They also kill bacteria in food. Nylon bearing for machinery have recently been patented.

Conn. Libraries Will Continue Victory Drive

Connecticut, thirty-first in population in the United States, stands fifth in the country in the number of books collected for the Victory Book Campaign, according to reports received by Miss Katharine H. Wead, State Director of the Campaign. This news was made public over a radio broadcast Saturday morning over Station WDRG, Hartford, which was participated in by Lieutenant Colin Kerr, Special Service Officer of Bradley Field, Air Base in Windsor Locks, Mr. William H. Bulkeley, of Hartford, Treasurer of the Hartford County USO and a member of the State Executive Committee of Victory Book Campaign, and Mrs. Allan C. Smith of West Hartford, also a member of the State Executive Committee for the Victory Book Campaign.

The Victory Book Campaign has been in progress all over the United States since January 12th, has sought ten million books for the men in the armed forces, and has been under the sponsorship of the American Library Association, the American Red Cross, and the United Service Organizations.

The Intensive Campaign was officially over in Connecticut on March 1st, but books are still being received at all libraries throughout the state, and will be for some time.

A letter from Miss Althea Warren of New York, National Director of the Victory Book Campaign, was read by Mrs. Smith. It is as follows: "We are filled with praise and admiration for Connecticut. Do you realize that in the roll call of states, Connecticut, which is thirty-first in population, stands fifth in the number of books contributed to the Victory Book Campaign, with 66,000 books distributed to government bases, USO Houses, etc. in Connecticut and books in excess of this are reported ready for shipment will undoubtedly bring this number up to well over 100,000. We are proud, and grateful as can be," Miss Warren's letter also calls attention to the generosity of the trucking companies of Connecticut, in transporting books, and the splendid work of all the regional and local chairmen who have done so well on such small margin of cost.

Lieutenant Kerr spoke of the enthusiasm with which the men had received books from the Victory Book Campaign at Windsor Locks Air Base, and listed as among the most popular books received the following: "For Whom the Bells Tolls," by Hemingway; "How Green Was My Valley," by Lewis; "Smattering of Ignorance," by Miller; "H. M. Pullum, Esquire," by Marquand; "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter," McCullers; "Horse and Buggy Doctor," by Hertzler; "Embezzled Heaven," by Werfel.

He also emphasized the need for books for relaxation saying, "When men have been on duty for eight, ten, twelve hours, or even longer, relaxation is greatly needed. Such relaxation often takes the form of light reading for amusement, not anything that takes particular concentration. After a man has concentrated on delicate mechanism of an airplane motor for a long period of time, it is important for him to relax and to take things easy. Often books supply this very need." Lieutenant Kerr also called attention to the fact that technical books are in such demand that a technical library has been installed as part of the base library.
