Feasibility of Zoning Will Come Before Town Meeting Tuesday Night

Six Items Appear In Call For Special Town Meeting In Community House April 7 At 8 P. M. — Proposal To Accept Maple Street Map Prepared By James Phelps.

To hear and consider and take such action as may be deemed advisable upon the report of a committee appointed as a result of a town meeting of May 28, 1940, a special town meeting has been advertised for April 7 at 8 o'clock in the Community House.

A year ago, a committee composed of all attorneys-at-law and realtors having offices in town were appointed to consider the feasibility of zoning the Town of Branford and report recommendation as the committee deemed for the best interests of the town.

After the committee's report item five of the call will consider the appointment and establishment of a zoning authority which shall be the zoning commission consisting of five members, whose terms of office shall be determined by the town meeting Tuesday evening.

Another item has to do with the acceptance of a map of proposed laying out of Maple Street between Harbor St. and Breezy Lane which through oversight was not presented at a town meeting.

Other items are financial and routine. The meeting will seek to use $70 unexpended balance of Indian Neck Ave Bridge Bond account for Blackstone Bridge repairs.

MORE POLICE NEEDED

Several men have volunteered to serve the defense program by doing auxiliary police work.

The two recent blackout tests have proven an urgent need for more enrollees.

Available men will give their names to Chief of Police Woehle or to the volunteer office as soon as possible.

Auxiliary police officers may be called upon to aid in enforcement of emergency restrictions on lighting and trespassing; guarding docks and bridges and factories against sabotage; guarding against the looting of partially demolished shops and homes.

Sale Of Seals Well Received

Walter H. Palmer, chairman of the local committee for the Easter Seal Sale of the Connecticut Society for Crippled Children, today reported an encouraging response from people in this area. To date $165.00 has been received.

"Although we are only at the half-way mark in the campaign," stated Mr. Palmer, "the preliminary returns indicate that Branford and North Branford people are vitally interested in the welfare of the crippled in our state, and we are hoping that funds raised will exceed the amount for any previous year."

Mr. Palmer emphasized the fact that work of the Society is a Connecticut program for Connecticut people. Last year the Society extended its services to over 900 people with twenty-two different types of crippling conditions.

A typical recent case helped by the Society is that of a 20 year old boy living in the northern part of the State. The wheelchair in which he had been sitting for eleven years was much too small for his comfort. Friends appealed to the local committee for the President's Birthday Ball Fund but, because he was not crippled by paralysis, these funds could not be used. The Connecticut Society heard of the boy's need promptly purchased him a new wheelchair, and now a trained occupational therapist of the Society visits him regularly to teach him a handicraft to keep his mind and hands busy.

This case illustrates how the Society fills the gaps in existing programs for the physically handicapped, and shows the need for the special service to the homebound which the Society is now developing.

Incendiary Bomb Ruins Fire Pail

The value of drills was determined Tuesday evening when Fire Marshall Ernest Wood called Headquarters to a surprise test in Palmer Road.

A roaring oil fire was started in a vacant lot and two incendiary bombs were set afire in Mr. Wood's garage.

Two minutes after the alarm firemen were at the fires and the fires controlled three minutes after. One bomb was extinguished by use of water spray and the second by sand. Necessity of holding repeated drills was evident when a sand filled bucket tipped. A bomb which had been placed in it fell to one side, touched the pail and instantly burned through.

After the surprise test firemen remained for practice. All companies are planning tests and drills.

DRAFT BOARD MOVES

Of the several hundred exhibitors entered the local artist was awarded a place among the first 25 exhibitors.

GOOD FRIDAY

An Extract From Governor Hurley's Proclamation

Let our homes and our places of worship become temples of fervent and purposeful prayer. Let us petition our Master and Savior to place a tender nail-pierced hand on the forces of evil and belligerency that their wrath and fury may be arrested. Let us beseech the Prince of Peace to imprint upon the hearts of war-like men his tranquility and love. Let there be a universal plea, ascending heavenward, that charity rather than malice shall motivate the lives of men. And may the Light of the Tomb, whose brilliance illumined a first Easter morn, become the Light of the World to radiate justice, equality, spirituality, and an abiding peace.

Merle E. Towner Guest Speaker For Rotarians

Merle E. Towner, general purchasing agent for the Western Maryland Railroad, and Past District Governor of Kiwanis, spoke on "Where Do We Go From Here?" at the meeting of the Rotary Club Monday noon. Mr. Towner said the liberties which we enjoy under the existing form of government are being seriously threatened. He said that it behooves everyone to insist that those who represent us in the government see to it that these privileges are maintained.

"Individually," he said, "We like to be energetic, active and possessive, as well as leaders of men. Leaders of men are qualified by endeavor, by education, by useful activity to inspire the respect of others, by training, and with it share responsibilities for conditions that surround home, business, community, church and civic activities."

Gift Dedicated To Memory Of Mary Desi

At the Church School Festival on Easter afternoon the new, enlarged shelf on the Alms Basin Bracket, given in memory of Mary Desi, a former member of the school, will be dedicated. The bracket, according to the best information obtainable, was made in 1891 by the Rev. Francis B. Whitcomb, then Rector of the Parish, and placed in the Church as a Thank Offering for the birth of his daughter, Louise Jane. For some time the shelf of the bracket has been too small for its present function which is to hold the Alms Basin both before and after the offertory. This change has greatly enhanced its usefulness and we are grateful to the Desi family for their gift. In response to a letter from the Rector stating the plans for the change, Mr. Whitcomb very graciously gave his consent and approval to them.

A brass plate giving the history of the bracket will be placed upon it before the service of dedication.

Week Vacation Will Be Allotted Ashley Workers

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America has reached an agreement with the Shirt Institute which provides for a 10% increase for all the shirt workers employed by their members and their contractors to go into effect on Monday, April 6th.

According to Aldo Cursi, Manager of the Connecticut Branch of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, this agreement will apply to all the shirt workers in this state who are not covered by agreements already made with other non-Association employers. Altogether, 3,500 shirt workers in this state and more than 40,000 throughout the country will be benefited by this increase. The Ashley Shirt Company will benefit by the increase as a result of the negotiations started a few weeks ago with several non-Association members and completed last week with the Shirt Institute.

Besides this increase, all shirt workers in the State will enjoy a week's vacation with pay, this coming July.

Mr. Cursi pointed out the changes which have taken place in the shirt industry in Connecticut. The Union, he said, has been working for the past ten years since the work began its effort to organize the workers, an effort which has been completely successful. It has not organized when the industry was of the workers the average wage was $2.00 per week for 48 or more hours of labor. Because of the efforts of the Union and the enlightened and State, the shirt workers' now receive decent wages. With the present increase they will be brought to about 55c per hour, but a tremendous improvement from the $7.00, $8.00 and $5.00 wages of the pre-Union and pre-New Deal days.

Fire Auxiliary Groups Forming

For rescue squad work, units of auxiliary firemen are being formed by fire captains Ernest Wood, Roy C. Enquist, and John Zvonkovic. Anyone interested is urged to volunteer for early organization is urgent.

Because numerous fires can start simultaneously and spread swiftly during or after a raid, it is necessary to augment the regular fire-fighting forces.

Branford Point has 28 men, Short Beach has a complete unit and so has Stony Creek. M. P. Rice is organizing and the M. I. F. has a training auxiliary force of 50. More volunteers are particularly needed at Indian Neck and in the center.

Fire Chief Roy Enquist said last night he hopes to have 150 auxiliary fire-fighters.

Men are organizing under the supervision of Charles A. Terhune, being trained by Ernest Wood and John Zvonkovic is providing equipment which will be distributed about town where most needed.

TAX MEETING POSTPONED

Captain Baldwin Of Double Beach Succumbs At 93

Albert Baldwin of Double Beach passed away this morning at a convalescent home in West Haven where he was taken a week ago after four months hospitalization in Grace Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at 2:00 in the Griswold Colonial Home, 69 Main Street. Interment will be in Center Cemetery. He is survived by two nieces.

"Captain" Baldwin celebrated his 93rd birthday on March 10 while a patient in the hospital.

For eleven years previous to illness he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. John Kulack of Double Beach. Practically his entire life was spent on the sea. Following the trade of his father he operated oyster boats and barges along the inland waters and fished and dug clams for recreation.

He was also an ardent walker. Until his last illness he frequently walked into Branford for the exercise and pleasure it gave him. He rarely entered community life or affairs preferring to remain at the beach. Neighbors looked for his almost daily gift of clams and fish and will remember him with his dog Nancy, shoving off shore to catch a tide at Cow and Cal.

Social Workers will hold a covered dish supper on the 13th.

CONNECTICUT CAN'T WAIT

Connecticut manufacturers at a meeting Monday announced the need of 85,000 to 100,000 workers. These figures do not include agricultural requirements.

Housing facilities, make it impossible to encourage importing workers, even if men are available. It therefore behooves the state to provide its own labor.

Women, more and more, must replace men in stores, clerical jobs and executive and administrative duties to permit men to enter factories.

Connecticut cannot wait for national registration of women.

In about five weeks, probably on August, rationing day, all women in Connecticut will be asked to register for work.

The program, which will be operated by the State Defense Council, will be done through local, county and state divisions of women's divisions.

Basically, a volunteer registration, Branford women will be asked to state their experience in business and their willingness to take full or part-time work that Connecticut men may engage in defense industry.

WHITE CROSS

Yesterday, the non-profit Connecticut Plan for Hospital Care celebrated the fifth anniversary of the date on which it first began rendering hospital service to the residents of Connecticut, and Branford is in Connecticut.

During those years the plan has spread from its starting point in New Haven to a community in the state, with the exception of Fairfield County, where a small, independent, non-profit plan has for some time been operating.

Non-profit hospital care was long in coming, but once here it spread rapidly. It is an achievement in White Cross history.

Today, in Connecticut outside of Fairfield County, one person in five is a member. All officers and directors serve without compensation of any kind in the interests of their community.

PRIMARIES

Are you one of those Americans who are being somewhat less than satisfied with Congress—putting it mildly? Have you felt that there is too much politics and palaver on Capitol Hill? Have you been impatient with the isolationism, the stand-pat New Dealism or rubber-stampism of some of your representatives? Have you wished that in this great national emergency Congress showed more of the courage and consideration of the men who are going to fight? If so, here is your opportunity to "do something about Congress."

Americans can, in the next few months, remake Congress. Every member of the House of Representatives and one-third of the Senators must win public approval in primaries and elections or drop out. If you are one of those

SPRING FLIGHT

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS . . .

"We have been asked for the impossible. Let us do it, as usual." That's what the president of the big company said to the employees: that's what he told them about the enormous new production job that his firm must do.

It's right about it, too. Like hundreds of other companies, this one has done the impossible in production. That's been the history of American industry—doing things that couldn't be done before. Buses, airplanes, moving picture cameras—every one of the modern inventions that we accept so casually now was "impossible" at one time. Yet we Americans did them.

And now in wartime we're still doing things that couldn't be done. We've got a long way to go. It's true, we're off to a flying start. Since Pearl Harbor airplane production has gone up more than 50 per cent, and that's only the beginning. One plant reports that it is now building four bombers on the same kind of moving assembly line that made it possible for our airplane companies to turn out millions of cars a year. Steel production has reached an all-time high. Daily production of crude oil is about 100 per cent over what it was a year ago. One company is making 100 per cent over one year than all the American plants together made in the World War. Another is already doing everything Double War Plan asked for— and more—in its war production program.

In the grim news that fills our papers today, these are important. They're the straws in the wind. They're the production wind that's blowing into a hurricane that will sweep away the old. A lot of "impossible" work that must be done before this happens. No matter. We're used to "impossible" work. We're Americans. We make up our minds, pitch in and work together, nothing in the world can stop us.

TRIPLE DUTY

During peacetime more than $300,000,000 was spent here in America in a single year to develop new products that would make our lives more comfortable. In research laboratories all over the country many thousands of men and women worked at the endless task of raising our standard of living higher and always higher.

Today those great industrial research laboratories have another job. They are working now to protect our freedom and the comfortable way of life that they helped to create. For our armed forces they have already developed airplanes, tanks and guns that are superior in many ways to foreign makes. And they are constantly improving themselves, constantly making weapons that are better than anything they've ever made to do.

They're busy, too, devising ways by which they can make our peacetime goods last longer, now that we'll have to do without many new products until the war is over. They've already perfected methods, to extend the use of that wood, plastics, and many other products plan has for some time been operating.

Such facts indicate that our industries today are not only sweating for victory on the firing lines; they're working for it on the home front, too. And they're planning ahead to the post-war period, figuring out new wonder products that can be manufactured then to raise our standard of living higher than anything we've ever known in the past.

Americans who want Congress of bigger caliber, you can start today to get it. The primaries will be coming along in the next few weeks. Today isn't too soon to begin to enlist good men, big men, who as a wartime duty might be willing to serve—and who by wartime submergence of partisanship might be elected. (Christian Science Monitor).

JITTERY MASSACHUSETTS?

Younger states of this great country are accustomed to look up to Massachusetts, to sort of look back in the reflection of her colonial and revolutionary glory, and didn't Calvin Coolidge say "Have faith in Massachusetts?"

But something has happened over Boston way. State defense officials, with the approval of the Massachusetts administration, have asked them to advise Congress, in case of air raids, to take shelter in anybody's house—just drive right in. Now the rest of us know you just can't drop in on

ALL IN THE DAY'S WORK

By E. C. AND N. H. CARPENTER

EASTER

So Easter is almost here again. It comes with Christmas in being one of the happiest days of all the Christian year. To many people I suppose it means far more than Christmas. The latter was a day of hope, the fulfillment of a long-cherished belief that some day the Messiah would come. Easter is a day of fulfillment of those expectations for it put the seal of Divine approval upon Him and His works. But it was far more than that. How many millions have trodden a bitter road toward some cemetery and have turned away sadly saying, "If a man die, will he live again?" But Easter comes to tell every bereaved soul that Jesus on Easter gave the world a new hope of immortality. Those who believe in Him find in the events of that day the strongest proof that our loved ones will live again, and in a better world than this.

Easter comes just at the time when all nature is waking up, and giving hints of a new and fresh life. A few days ago the crocuses were blooming merrily in my back yard. As I sit writing this a new fallen snow has buried them all up. But they will live again, and bloom even more beautifully. They are not dead, just out of sight a bit, that is all.

There is hardly a community of any size today in the whole civilized world where there are not fathers and mothers who are in army. Will he ever come back? Who knows. Indeed, many fine boys have already made the supreme sacrifice. I hope for all such anxious friends that the Easter day will be a day of peace and hope and confidence. If one has dear ones that are "lost awhile," let us try to think that they are "waiting in another room." Jesus said, "Because I live, ye shall live also." Easter proved to vast multitudes of people that he does live, and lives forever.

Let us take joy in the flowers of Easter, and in the spring day, and in the new life, and in the glad songs for Christ is alive, and he will come again. We will be patient here until the morning comes and all of the clouds flee away. Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Ernest C. Carpenter

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

By SPENCER PRESTON

The Congressional horizon is dominated by labor problems this week. The issue in Washington is how do we arrive at our national labor policy. In Congress going to formulate it by enacting legislation, or will it be left to our War Labor Board, which is to evolve a labor policy for the country by deciding each case on its merits.

Congress is willing to shrink away from it. But the War Labor Board is willing to give labor one more chance to put its house in order, but the House is not willing to do so quickly. The patience of Congress is fraying fast.

However, not all the members of Congress feel the same way about the question. A goodly number of Senators who until now have been loyal supporters of the Administration have broken with it on the issue of the enactment of restrictive labor legislation.

Congress has also been prodded into action by the barrage of letters coming from every part of the country. One Senator reported the receipt of 20,000 letters in three days, the vast majority of which demanded that Congress repeal the forty-hour week law, outlaw strikes, and prevent union racketeering through the collection of excessive union dues before workers can obtain jobs in war industries.

A quick summary of the labor question which have set everyone here on his toes indicates that there is much at stake. Abandonment of the forty-hour week, outlawing of the closed shop, control of excess war profits, wage controls, abandonment of time and one-half for overtime and double pay on Sundays and holidays are some matters being discussed.

They are, it is admitted by all concerned, tough questions—enough to make the brains of any committee of experts. In fact, the Administration, labor and management are marshalling forces on Sundays and holidays are some matters being discussed. ## Report Strange Things In Sky Say Officials

Helen, cute, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tregal of West Willington knows what to do when she sees something strange in the sky. Recently she came rushing into her home crying, "Mummy, come quick, there's a man hanging from a balloon in the sky!" Her mother and father immediately responded to the child's appeal and to their amazement, saw a parachute floating earthward.

Immediately Mr. Tregal called Chief Observer Leon Woodworth of one of the two West Willington observation posts of the Aircraft Warning Service. He, in turn, put through a flash message to the Interceptor Command, U. S. Army Air Corps, and the information was relayed to the proper authorities.

Upon investigation it was found the parachute had drifted to West Willington from Simsbury, a distance of twenty miles, where an Army bomber crashed, which was also promptly reported by the Aircraft Warning Service. The parachute, unfortunately, had only an empty harness hanging below it, a mute testimony of a tragedy of the skies. The body of the flyer, who had fallen from the harness, was later discovered.

Little Miss Tregal's parents did exactly as they should have done in reporting the startling incident to the Aircraft Warning Service. It is the duty of this service, under Army orders, to keep a constant vigil and to inform the Army of the movement of any and all air-borne craft. There are at present 189 observation posts in Connecticut which are operated on a twenty-four hour basis, seven days a week.

Sponsored by the American Legion, who did the vast job of organizing the almost 20,000 civilian observers, the service is now functioning smoothly and with ever-increasing efficiency. There is still an opportunity for both men and women to volunteer for a tour of duty at their local observation post. Call the Commander of the local Legion Post.

OF Course Not

The children were playing in Mrs. Smith's driveway. Suddenly she heard a crashing of a window pane. She hurried out to find only little Mary Jane, the others had run away.

Mrs. S.: "Mary Jane, please tell me who broke this window?" Mary Jane: "I didn't do it, and I'm not going to tell on Billy."

STRAIGHT FROM NEW YORK

EXAMINATIONS MAY BE TAKEN EARLY

If you are an out-of-state driver, or a new driver, and must therefore take an examination before receiving a new Connecticut driver's license, give yourself a break by coming in before May, the peak-rush month. A Motor Vehicles Department bulletin which was issued in April, 1941, licenses expire at midnight, April 30. License renewals will be issued now.

The number of examinations given during April is always high, but May is the peak month. Last year during May, 15,400 examinations were given, an increase of 3,792 over the 9,008 given during that month the year before.

May, last year, recorded more than twice as many examinations as April and more than three times as many as March. In May last year inspectors had to be transferred among the branch offices and from the inspection lanes in order to handle the rush of applicants for examinations. Nearly half an hour has to be allowed for the road test in the average case.

All-out-of-town drivers must take the eye test and the law test. The road test may be waived, however, if an operator holds a current license in another state where the examination is similar to Connecticut's.

SPEAKING OF HEALTH

By Dr. Victor G. Heiser

BITING THE ENEMY

Twenty-three per cent of the volunteers rejected by the Army in a certain area recently were rejected because of bad teeth.

"What's the idea?" several of the disappointed young men asked. "We have to bite the enemy?"

Uncle Sam knows, by long experience with millions of his young soldiers everywhere in the armed forces, that good teeth are mighty important. They say that "an army travels on its stomach." A soldier can't operate very effectively or very comfortably on a stomach loaded down with chunks of poorly chewed or unchewed food.

He must have good teeth, because mastication, or thorough chewing, is essential for the good digestion and assimilation of his food.

We in civilian life don't have to bite the enemy, either. But in order to make our most effective effort—and each one of us has his part—we must not let our efficiency be impaired by trouble with our teeth. We must at least be able to bite our food and chew it.

One of the chief factors in the growth and maintenance of healthy teeth is nutrition, proper nourishment.

We all need plenty of vitamins C and D, calcium, and phosphorus. That means plenty of the citrus fruits (oranges, lemons, grapefruit, etcetera), tomatoes, plenty of sunshine, and milk.

The citrus fruits and tomatoes provide us with vitamin C, which is also found in milk. Potatoes, many fruits and berries and in many vegetables commonly eaten.

The greatest natural source of vitamin D is immediately available to all of us: the sun itself; its action upon our skin produces vitamin D, which helps the blood carry available calcium and phosphorus through the system to build sound, healthy bones and teeth.

THE AIR RAID WARDEN

THE WARDEN, THE COMMUNITY AND THE HOUSEHOLD UNIT

This is Article Number 8 in a series of ten prepared by the State Defense Council on the duties and activities of Air Raid Wardens.

Genuine co-operation between the air raid warden and the people of his community is the first essential to the success of any air raid protection. The warden is expected to be all things to all men and his problems are apt to range from making the food formula for a baby to taking charge during a major disaster. The training of the people of his community is also a part of his job. Some can be taught, much that is technical, while others can absorb only the most elemental safeguards. The warden must know how to handle those who believe "It can't happen here." He must recruit assistance and also take advantage of all volunteer help offered. The more people he can make take part in the program, the better.

The local or post warden will have in his district many household units and is the aim of defense authorities to have at least one person in each of these who understands the rudiments of air raid protection. It is the warden's job to teach this group, and a six-hour course has been prepared which covers the things most important for these "household wardens" to know. This presents an opportunity for busy housewives, or others, who for a variety of reasons have not much time to make a real contribution to civilian defense.

First Aid

The household course teaches simple facts about poison gases and how to identify the most common; the effect of such on the body, and the type of first aid treatment in cases where first aid can be effectively administered by the layman. With even such simplified teaching, the type of first aid treatment for these "household wardens" to know. This presents an opportunity for busy housewives, or others, who for a variety of reasons have not much time to make a real contribution to civilian defense.

These fundamental foods are: 1. milk, 2. meat or eggs, 3. fresh fruit, 4. leafy vegetables, 5. wholewheat, 6. soybean or enriched white bread or cereals.

If you eat these foods make a daily choice between foods in the "four" groups; you can then satisfy whatever your appetite tells you, you need, provided, of course, your doctor doesn't restrict your diet for any reason.

Too few of us pay enough attention to teeth. Children, for instance, should not only get plenty of the foods mentioned above, but should be taken to the family dentist for their first visit when they are 2 or 3 years old. After that they should have a regular check-up twice a year.

The rest of us should keep our teeth free from infection and decay at all times. This means proper diet and periodic visits to the family dentist for cleaning and repair. The dentist, as well as your doctor, is your guardian of your health and well-being.

In these days of national emergency, of course, water may be spread on the surrounding walls and a fog spray applied to the bomb, but never a jet of water directly upon you. Siren pumps which are just hand pumps with a long garden hose and a special nozzle attached, have been used most effectively for this in England. The warden must see that everyone understands these and how to work them, and that there are puns in as many buildings as possible. He must see to it that whatever precautionary measures the local fire department recommends are carried out.

The selection and preparation of a refuge room is a problem that every household may have, and the warden is the person who should investigate and give advice. There is some difference of opinion among the experts as to the best place for these, but unless something like the English Anderson shelter or the American fallout shelter is available, a cellar room not containing an oil tank or burner and not in danger of being flooded by broken water main, can usually be made safe against anything but a direct hit.

A Long Job

Household wardens will be taught what to expect during a raid, the effects of blast, and how best to protect themselves if caught on the street, which of course they should not be. Their job is not finished with the "all clear" signal. They should examine their own property for small fires and time bombs, and unexploded anti-aircraft shells. They must look for and if possible recognize damage to utilities.

In other words, the warden is multiplying his own effectiveness many times by giving training to householders. If these householders never have to use it, so much the better. If they do, they are prepared to meet emergencies calmly and with a sense of responsibility. "No one has the right to become a casualty" or make work for someone else. That is the hardboiled philosophy which has produced the splendid civilian defense in England.

Cinema Chatter

Richard Travis, who just completed a leading role in "The Big Shot," at Warner Bros., spent 18 months in Hollywood waiting for his chance in pictures.

Although she owns a 160-acre farm and raises quantities of carrots, Joan Fontaine, star of Warner Bros. "The Constant Nymph," still doesn't like carrots.

All but one of the several suits in Jeffrey Lynn's wardrobe have been stored "for the duration." He wore the one to camp to exchange for a uniform.

Jane Wyman's only good luck charm is a jade locket which she found in Walkill Beach at Honolulu.

Bette Davis made her first New York appearance with the Provincetown players in "The Earth Belongs."

Jeanne Cagney, who appears with her brother, James, in Warner Bros. "Yankee Doodle Dandy," limped onto the set the otherday with an unusual explanation for her stiffness.

"I've been wanting to add some ballet steps to other things I've learned about dancing," she said. "Last night I went to my dancing school, and never in my life have I gone through such an ordeal of stretching, leaping and twirling. Finally I had to give up. When I told the teacher I was quitting, I found out that I was in the beginner's ballet class instead of the beginners, where I belonged."

Errol Flynn, playing a flier in "Desperate Journey," spent 15 minutes each morning having his face dirtied for a certain scene.

Jean Fitzgerald, Warner Bros. actress and as Irish as her name, owns a chip off the Blarney Stone.

Humphrey Bogart is out of prison stripes and in a uniform for "Warner Bros. 'Across the Pacific.'"

Who do you think of this program? "Castle in the Desert" tonight, starting that man of mystery Charlie Chan and his number 2 son, Arlene Whelan and Richard Derr. You are invited to a murder party at 7:30.

Gerardine Fitzgerald likes music. She plays the piano and sings. She sings the old folk songs of Ireland.

James Cagney danced through three pairs of specially made shoes while "Yankee Doodle Dandy" was being filmed.

Michael Ames, Warner Bros. actor, is deeply interested in music and is an accomplished violinist.

Jack Carson can play almost any musical instrument by ear, but prefers the piano.

A new radio set automatically turns on the lights on outdoor signs during blackouts. The set is mounted on a wall by the station, and when the station stops broadcasting, the radio switches off the lights.

No. 4 is that Master of Swing on the coast-to-coast networks, Clyde McCoy and his famous "Sugar Blues" Orchestra featuring the celebrated four Bennett Sisters and Freddy Stewart, handsome, romantic tenor.

This production carries a cast of 35, including the famous "Meet The People" beauty chorus and is presented in 20 hilarious scenes. All in all, it is a 5-bell, 5-star stage show, an ideal treat for the Easter Holidays that you cannot afford to miss, and is playing this week Friday, Saturday, Easter Sunday and Easter Monday for 4 big days, on the stage of the State Theatre, Hartford.

Crippled People Helped By Sales Of Easter Seals

Over 600 crippled people in Connecticut, both children and adults, benefited from the broad program of the Connecticut Society for Crippled Children last year, according to Walter H. Palmer, chairman of the local committee for the Easter seal sale now being conducted throughout the State. The people helped represented twenty-two different types of crippling conditions.

These benefits included over 3,000 corrective treatments at various clinics in the State, the supplying of numerous braces, wheelchairs, and special orthopedic appliances, as well as transportation to and from clinics. In addition to its broad medical program, the Society continued to expand its vocational training service for the crippled. In the two carefully supervised workshops, located in Hartford and Bridgeport, the health and work abilities of many crippled people have been restored to the point where they have taken up a gainful occupation. Many more are waiting for this opportunity as soon as additional facilities are available.

Mr. Palmer stressed the fact that proceeds from the Easter seal sale constitute almost the entire income of the Society and that the further expansion of this program will depend upon the success of the present campaign.
