· A LITTLE ABOUT THIS AND THAT

BY PAUL H. STEVENS

TRAGEDY BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Tragedy is no respector of seasons. Death stalks the highways even at Christmas-time.

The sympathy of this entire community goes out warmly this, the week before Christmas, to Stephen T. and Bertha Oakley of 11 Lindbergh street, whose beloved oldest daughter, Carol, a beginner in Grade 1 of Laurel school, and only six years old, died of a fractured skull late Monday afternoon in Grace Hospital. Her four year old sister, Judy, scarcely old enough to realize what is happening in a home turned suddenly from gladness to sadness, still waits, starry-eyed, for the coming of Santa, about whom her sister had had so much to say during the past few weeks. On the day of the tragedy a freshly-bought Christmas tree-stood in the back yard awaiting the time when it would be brought into the house and decorated with tinsel and bright lights. Doll houses, furniture and toys had been hidden away, safe from prying, inquisi tive little eyes. There was a spirit of gay anticipation in the little home on Lindbergh street, as in so many other East Haven homes these passing days. Then to the mother and father came the sicken-

Carol was on the way home from school only a block or so away She was other children, romping and gay one minute, and crushed beneath an automobile the next. Tragedy had struck once more. The driver of the car, Joseph N. Potvin, 7, of 10 McLay avenue, took the crumpled form to Dr. Taylor's office at the center, and within minutes the child was being rushed to Grace Hospital in the Ambulance which Rotary gave to the Town a few years ago. Everything that medical science could do was done, but without avail.

This was East Haven's second traffic fatality this year. If there are lessons to be learned from this tragedy, pray God, we all tonstall ridge is soon lost to the eye. A shore line train speeds across ing. the flats north of town, lights glowing cheerilly from its string of cars, and a long wreath of smoke trailing behind, a gray smudge in the background. Far above, in the vaulted dome of the heavens, the stars have begun to come out, bright and sparkling. Then, in a twinkling, the street lights burst forth, and from north to south and east to west. East Haven is fleeked with myriad points of light. The dwellings, indistinguishable in the darkness, and dwarfed to lilliputian size from the height and distance of Beacon Hill, show tiny, glowing windows, that tell of comfort and Christmas cheer within the homes. Cutting a gay swarth of brightness through the center of the picture are the multicolored Christmas lights of Main street reaching as far as the darker blot which marks the Town Green beyond.

There are many views in and around East Haven that delight us at other seasons of the year, but one has to stand, as we have, on the summit of Beacon Hill at twilight in the Christmas season to enjoy a scene long to be remembered.

PITFALLS FOR THE UNWARY

The News Letter of the New Haven Chamber of Commerce points last Sunday were given in last Sunda out in its current issue that shortly after the first of the year merchants and industrialists can expect the annual visit of out-of-town outfits selling advertising in what is purported to be a directory. The presentation is usually made over the telephone or in person in such nanner, the New Haven Chamber of Commerce states, that the post manner, the New Haven Chamber of Commerce states, that the post manner, the New Haven Chamber of Commerce states, that the post manner, the New Haven Haven Haven Haven Hose line and in most instances, there is neither merchandiscent by the New Haven Hose Lois Miller of Bradley avenue. ing nor goodwill value to the advertisements purchased. The directory of one of these groups consists solely of a desk blotter circulated among those who advertise in it.

East Haven merchants and business people have found to their sorrow in the past that there are numerous advertising pitfalls into which they can throw their money. When asked to buy advertising which they can throw their money. When asked to buy advertising or to contribute to some cause or crusade, especially when the sellor to contribute to some cause or crusade, especially when the selling voice is an appealing one over the telephone, it would always be

The East Haven Business Association, although only a year old has done a swell job in protecting not only its members from the in-ronds of our-of-town advertising schemes, but it has also pointed the way to many local organizations that participation in such plans, where most of the money goes into the hands of the imported solici-tors, is not mutally beneficial. We have heard dissatisfaction express ed regarding some of the Business association decisions regarding be a little early. I watched the ever program and similar advertising, but feel that as time goes on both business men and general public will find the adopted policy the

SUGGESTIONS WANTED

The East Haven Memorial and G.I. Welcome Home Committee has been duly organized, and has started planning for a celebration to be held probably in the late spring of next year to officially welcome home the more than a thousand townsmen who served in World ant and I found myself sitting with the was to become a teacher and War II. Each organization has been invited, either by letter or Evelyn Chandler of the Ice Follies, I even started to college but instead through the press, to be represented on this committee, and it is to be hoped that at the meetings which will be held monthly from now on there will be a generaland enthusiastic response. It is fitting and proper that this community should provide a suitable celebration and one which can be long remembered with pride and pleasure.

As one of its first acts the committee has asked for an expression of ideas from the general public as to what form the celebration should take and what features should be included in this welcome-home to our boys. These ideas will be gone over at the meetings, discussed, and out of the discussions should come such an observance as will be momerable. We hope that those who have ideas on the matter, especially the boys themselves, will make them known to the committee. # The Lights Are On Again-But Not For All Looking back to Christmas two years ago we find a great contrast to this, our Christmas of 1946. Back in 1944 many of us had prepared for Christmas long before Thanksgiving. That was when we sent our packages early, so our boys would have their gifts by Christmas Day, assuring them of a measure of the Yule-

We did not look upon Christmas that year, or in 1943, or 1942 or 1941 as a season of bright lights. We were then more interested in the news flashes than the flash of the gay Christmas

We are all pleased with the gala holiday spirit here in East Haven for this 1946 Christmas season. Y es, we can truly be proud of our town this year. The lights are, in a way, a symbol of what our boys fought for.

The lights are now on again all over the world. But let us not forget, even for a minute, that for some of our boys the lights will never go on again. The boys who died to make it possible for us to have our gay lights at Christmas time will never see these lights again.

All too many are inclined to take our lights for granted. They probably have never been to the hospitals where those who served are blind, disabled and otherwise cut off from the cheerful world we know. They are those for whom the lights have

Busy, dizzy Mrs. Brodie!

No. this isn't a new kind of toy. It's merely Mrs. Brodie, after a few hectic days of Christmas shopping. "I'm simply whirling around like a top!" moans Mrs. Brodie. "I wish there was a way to shop without stirring out of the house. My feet are KILLING me! And I'm afraid I've fractured my budget!"/ Well, there's one item Mrs. Brodie doesn't have to shop forthat's electricity! It comes to her special delivery, without effort or waiting. She has only to flip a switch, and electric power is right on hand in any quantity she needs Electricity is easy on Mrs. Brodie's budget, too. For a few pennies, her electric range will cook din for her while she shops. She can rest her feet and listen to the radio all evening for another penny. Mr. Brodie has no complaint, either. A couple of cents worth of electricity (and Mrs. Brodie) will iron a whole week's supply of his shirts.

Busy, dizzy Mrs. Brodie! But this wild holiday fervor comes only once a year. And she enjoys helpful, dependable electricityat low cost-all year round. So do you. The practical planning of the friendly folks in this company-under sound business management—makes that possible.

Doyou think steel profits are big?

Recently in a nation-wide poll most people guessed that steel profits were about 20 cents on each dollar of sales. They said 10 cents would Actually, for the past ten years steel company profits have averaged less than 5 cents on each dollar of sales.

Although profits continue low, wages, employment and production are near record levels.

cekly wages in steel industry in the third quarter of 1946 were 63% higher than in 1939.

steel production in 1946 was headed toward a new peacetime record until the November coal strike.

Average profit per dollar of sales in 1915 is lower than it was in most good Prewar years.
