Agitation has gone forward for a new Post Office Building and this has won approval in high places. Favorable action awaits only the time, we understand, when building materials become available. A new Post Office is one of our most urgent needs.

There has been much new business development in town! New stores have opened and others are projected. With the easing of building materials there should be an increased business boom along Main street. Let's all help to make 1947 one of East Haven's best years.

A COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS

Christmas, 1946, has come and gone, and we believe that, from a community standpoint, it was one of the best that East Haven has ever enjoyed. There was an outpouring this season of a real Christ their height nearly 150 feet above ever enjoyed. #### KENNETH ROBERTS' NEW NOVEL

One of the new novels to be released after the New Year, Kenneth Roberts' "Lydia Bailey", will, we venture to predict, cause quite a stir in the book world. Its release date is January 2, and we have been fortunate enough to read it in advance. We have long been a Kenneth Roberts fan and his "Northwest Passage", "Oliver Wiswell", "Captain Caution", "Rabble in Arms" and "Arundel" brought to us in the past many delightful hours. Kenneth Roberts is an author who has never yet failed to present American history more daringly, accurately, unconventionally, and yet more fascinatingly than any other writer who might be named. His new romance is woven around the thrilling life of Lydia Bailey and Albion Hamlin, and their strange adventures in Haiti after the Negro uprising under Christophe and Toussaint L'Ouverture, and three important factual additions to American history. The first, in photographic equipment and the Cowles; treasurer, Leroy Chidsey. in Tripoli during the brief war between the young United States connection with his "Arundel", was "March to Quebec" which Brinley brothers will be able to take

I see where the new committee to relcome home our East Haven eterans from the last war has alled for the public to make sugalled for the public to make sugestions as to what we could do in ne way of a celebration. It seems me high time that the boys were iven the glad hand the war being ver for so long now and most of e fellows back to their families and vork and trying to forget about hose lost years. Most of the towns save had their celebrations already ind it seems like we could look nost successful and sort of pick out e best features that they had. At Buy nutritious vitaminized margarcast this is one thing in which we cast this is one thing in which we ire not pioneering. The boys are and perhaps they will come forward vith plans as to what kind of want to have provided for them. As near as I can figure it we had between a thousand and eleven aundred in the service from East Haven and giving the right hand of welcome to them in an official way will be a real problem. Now I have thought things over in my own humble way and it seems to me that the celebration ought not to be too much of a show as a sincere community expression of welcome. If we are going to have some kind of a memorial erected for the memory of those who did not come back it ought to be a simple one, perhaps not unlike the World War I tablet on the Town Green, The public part of the celebration could center around that a ceremony of dedication. That day would also be a good time to dedicate the War Memorial Athletic Field which ought to be levelled and grassed over by the time the the company itself will absorb the Ohio Supreme Court, you have the country, insofar as its Supreme Carolyn Strandberg is warm a block dance on the To Wed Mr. Malo Green and possibly a feed somewhere for those who want it.

Branford Area Given Improved Phone Service

In a recent survey to determine the telephone needs of the rural ection of the Branford area, The Southern New England Telephone Company found that 6 of the 9 families who live beyond existing telephone lines are interested in service. All prospects can have telephone service without construction charges.

O. S. Chapman, manager for the company, said that just as rapidly as manpower and materials become available, telephone service will be extended to all who desire it. He dded that the average construction necessary to serve the 6 families will be two-tenths of a mile per customer, and that the cost of the new lines to the company is estimated at $2,040.

Many of the residents surveyed are taking advantages of new re-sitant Minister in All Saints gulations which increse to one-half Church, Worester, Mass Mr. Pike the free allowance for construction has accepted the eail and officiated along highways beyond existing at services commencing Christmas telephone lines.
