TOWN TOPICS

Although the Republican Victory Dinner will honor the new town officers, its primary purpose is to recognize the important work of Matty Anastasio during the recent campaign.

Send your dollar to help boost the Volunteer Fire Departments to Alfred Bowden treasurer of the drive. The latest financial report shows considerable public support in behalf of the fire funds.

Ward was received this week from Capt. Robert Hartmann that he safely arrived in Frankfurt, Germany last Thursday after a one day flight from this country.

Capt. Hartmann was recently promoted to Asst. Divisional Signal Officer in the 43rd Div. A reservist, the local officer is a veteran of W. W. II and was recalled with the 102nd Inf. last year.

His wife, the former Lois Miller and son, Bobby, are currently residing with the Charles Millers of Bradley Avenue.

Ken Griffiths of Forbes Place is smiling broadly this week since he purchased that nice shiny Mercury Jim Malone, Grand Knight of the local K of C council, and star keeper on St. Vincent No. 1 bowling team, well known in following the heckling job his brother bowlers pulled off on him last Tuesday night. Jim won first 2 pot game of regular Monday night bowling with his 1000 taking third, which would call for each man on team to ante up double award. However, to forestall this eventuality, the other 4 on the team proceeded to take him out of being high man.

Steve Narracci, ex-East Haven High basketball and baseball star, has entered the Navy and expects to leave within the month for boot training.

Among East Haven's newer home-owners are Concetta and Michael Lucibello who have moved to 3 Kenney Court from New Haven. He's with Chamberlain's and well known in furniture circles hereabouts. In Dayton's is singing a song of satisfaction over Ginger Rogers dancing. Seems they're stocking Method "Magic Motion" stocks in which Ginger danced 27 miles without a pop, snag, run or wrinkle. Incidentally, Charlotte Pfeiff of Short Beach has joined Dayton's office staff.

John W. Anderson, Jr., Aviation Ordnanceman Serves Aboard Essex

Serving aboard the 27,000-ton aircraft carrier USS Essex in Korean waters are four area men. They are Donald L. Murphy, aviation boatswain's mate 3d class, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Murphy of 11 Birchwood Drive Orange; John W. Anderson Jr., aviation ordnanceman 3d class, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of 27 Meadow Street, East Haven; Francis J. Chesnut, gunner's mate 3d class, son of John F. Chesnut, 12 Elizabeth Street, Derby; and Walter E. Lacey, airman, son of Mrs. Anna B. Lacey, 59 Redfield Street.

East Haven Firm Gets Contract To Remove Elm Trees

The Pond Lily Tree Expert Company of East Haven has secured a contract earlier this week when supt. of Parks Peter J. Van Heiningen opened quotations for the removal of New Haven's dead elm trees. This firm asked $16,700. Other bidders were Walter C. Korn Company, Litchfield, $17,690; and Carter Tree Expert Company, Manchester, $19,128.

Pfc. Peter Farino Is Army Bandsman

Pfc. Peter G. Farino, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Farino, 85 Michael Street, East Haven, Connecticut, has completed the 12-week bandsman course given at the European Command handsman school in Dachau, Germany.

Lt. Frederick A. Pieper, Korean Veteran, Describes Use Of Blood On War Front

First Lieutenant Frederick A. Pieper of East Haven, a veteran of Korean action, knows the value of whole blood and blood plasma.

Recently while home on a furlough, he decided to visit his mother in New Haven. With him were his son and daughter. Driving by the Trinity Church Parish House, where a bloodmobile unit was stationed he stopped, "almost instinctively," he reported later. "A hundred reminders of how I saw blood and plasma used at the Korean front and in hospitals nearby rushed into my mind. The least I could do was stop and offer my own blood."

Insistent as he was to give his blood with the other donors, his medical history of service-incurred jaundice ruled him out. It is one disease that makes for rejection in the Connecticut Blood Program in its effort to make giving blood safe for the donor.

Dejected at not being able to donate blood, Lt. Pieper did extend his visit at the collection center to paint a dramatic picture of how badly the life-giving fluid is needed by Korean servicemen who have been injured, or stricken ill. "Many are going to need blood for a long time," he stressed. Still vivid in his mind is one of the last scenes he witnessed in Korea before returning to the U. S. on August 3.

"I saw four men receiving blood at the same time. They were all hit by the same mortar shell. It took 30 minutes to get them to the first aid station. The blood and the care they received there did the job. The doctors assured us all four would recover," he said.

"There were times in Korea when I saw blood given to wounded men every day. An aid man travels with each platoon, and part of his equipment is at least one bottle of plasma. I've seen aid men, under terrible pressure and conditions, perform near-miracles with blood and plasma. And it's needed just as badly now, for men injured and hospitalized, as ever was," he said soberly.

A veteran of World War II, the 29-year-old lieutenant, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Pieper of 405 Temple Street, lives at 47 Green Gardens Court, East Haven. He is married to the former Miss Lorraine Rowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Rowley of 35 King Street, Hamden.

Lt. Pieper was graduated from New Haven High School in 1940. Among his decorations are the Silver Star, the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, 3d award, combat infantry badge, ETO with three stars, and the Korean campaign ribbon with three battle stars. On September 16, Lt. Pieper left for Fort Benning, Georgia, where he is serving as an instructor in the infantry school.

Exchange Club Works On Amateur Contest

Members of the East Haven Exchange Club are in the planning stage of a giant Amateur Night, the winner of which will have a chance to appear at a special Ted Mack talent audition, it was said today.

The contest is sponsored by Ted Mack and the Original Amateur Hour and the late Major Doves Staff, sponsored by Old Gold Cigarettes.

Mrs. Eric W. Dohna Was Public Health Delegate

Mrs. Eric W. Dohna was East Haven's delegate to a meeting of the board members organization of the Connecticut Public Health Nursing Agencies in Hartford on Wednesday.

Mrs. Dohna, president of the local Public Health Nursing Association, was chosen delegate at a meeting of the group held recently in the town hall.

Roy Hotchkiss' To Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Hotchkiss of 17 Childs Avenue, East Haven, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary by holding "open house" on Sunday, October 28, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Ten Mothers Attend West Haven Meeting

The following delegation from East Haven attended the South West Haven Conference of Parents-Teachers at the West Haven Methodist Church recently: Mrs. Raymond Powellson, Mrs. Thomas Fenton, Mrs. Edward Kronberg, Mrs. John Ruotolo, Mrs. Kenneth Bergman, Mrs. Robert Libby, Mrs. Burton Reed, Mrs. David King, Mrs. Erwin Samuelson and Mrs. R. M. Fasanella.

Bloodmobile Visits East Haven Town Hall October 29th

The next visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit from Hartford is scheduled for Monday, October 29th from two to seven P. M. in the lower Town Hall, in order to meet the requirement of 150 pints per visit. It is necessary to schedule at least 200 donors.

Mrs. Eric Dohna who is the local Chairman of the Program has already sent out appointment cards and it is hoped that the response will make possible the full quota of blood. Whether receiving an appointment card or not, anyone is welcome to "Just Walk In" and he or she will gladly accepted. A trained staff from Hartford accompanies the Unit and is assisted by local trained nurses serving on a volunteer basis. It is unnecessary, under ordinary conditions, to check with family physicians as medical histories taken at the Blood Center are carefully checked by the Doctor in charge.

Every able-bodied person is urged to respond to the appeal for the blood which is so urgently needed in the Hospital as well as in Korea. The slogan "THE LIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN" may well apply to this program.

Halloween Observance Will Feature Window Decorating By Youth

Halloween observance in East Haven will be the most colorful—and least destructive—in the town's history, it was announced yesterday by Al Anastasio and the Chamber of Commerce in their joint effort to plan the observance.

The Main Street businessmen said that a window decorating contest for children will take place on Wednesday, October 31, Halloween. The cooperation of all the town business places is being sought and all contacted to date have willingly agreed to go along with the idea. Those who have not been contacted are asked to reach Mr. Anastasio by phone.

Serving on the committee are Brent Barker, Al Holcombe and Anastasio. Five prizes will be given after the contest is judged. Judges will be announced next Thursday. The rules of the contest restrict the art work to water colors or Borden soap. This is to protect windows, Anastasio explained. The use of crayons and other type paints is prohibited.

Lt. Herbert Herr Jr. Gets Medical Diploma

First Lieut. Herbert H. Herr Jr., husband of Mrs. Dorothy S. Herr, of Lake Guilford, and son of Rep. Herbert H. Herr of East Haven was a member of the class of sixty-three doctor-students who received diplomas at graduation exercises for the latest Aviation Medical Examination class at the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, San Antonio, Texas. The class included regular Air Force, National Guard and reserve medical officers.

Barker Clarifies Law Which Barred Raises For Teaching Personnel

225 MORE PUPILS ENTERED LOCAL SCHOOLS THIS YEAR

A total of 225 pupils more than last year are currently attending East Haven elementary and secondary schools, according to a report by Supt. of Schools William E. Gillis.

The report was presented at Friday night's meeting of the Board of Education in the high school. According to the report, 202 pupils out of the 225 total are enrolled in the elementary grades, and the remaining 22 are at the high school. The largest single increase—107—was that of the Kindergarten classes.

A total of 1,810 students are enrolled in the eight elementary schools as follows: Kindergarten, 303; grade one, 239; grade two, 260; grade three, 279; grade four, 269; grade five, 198; grade six, 171; grade seven, 49; grade eight, 42.

The high school, which includes 263 junior high students, had the following grade enrollments: Grade seven, 126; grade eight, 137; grade nine, 156; grade 10, 137; grade 11, 143; grade 12, 123, making a high school total of 822. The grand total enrolled in both elementary and high school classes is 2,632.

Much of the meeting last Friday was devoted to discussion and consideration of committee reports. The board approved a request from the Highland School P. T. A. to use a room at the school for meetings of a Brownie Troop which the P.T.A. would sponsor.

The board also granted, at the request of a parents' petition, use of a basement room at Momauguin School for the fifth grade in that school, so that it might be placed on a full session day. The board voted to pay bills amounting to $7,872.87.

The appointments of nine persons to positions in East Haven town offices have been announced by First Selectman Frank A. Barker. Judge Vincent J. Pasano was named town counsel; Charles Miller, town engineer, and Dr. Rocco Bove, physician for athletic events. Other appointments were Charles Polrot, plumbing inspector; Anthony Ferriola, chairman of the Park Commission; Howard Russell, clerk in the building department; Carmela Biondi, clerk to the zoning commission; Frank McKoon, boxing inspector; and Arthur DeLeonardo, custodian of the town hall.

Poster Awards To Be Announced At High Assembly

A high school assembly slated for next Thursday in the auditorium on the subject of "Fire Prevention" will disclose the winners of the poster and essay contest, sponsored by the Exchange Club in connection with school authorities and Fire Department officials, Principal Carl Garvin said yesterday.

Members of the town's official family in addition to Fire Chief J. Hayes will be invited to attend.

The posters have been on display in various stores throughout town all week, and attracted considerable attention, according to the chief. He said he appreciated the interest shown in Fire Prevention Week by children, parents, and townspeople in general, and added that he hoped all had benefited from the educational value of the program.

A total of 24 prizes will be awarded for both contests at a high school assembly later in the month. Names of the winners are expected to be announced some time this week.

Prizes have been donated by 25 local businessmen and citizens, including First Selectman Frank A. Barker, J. Johnson & Sons, Towne Jewellers, Lee's Paint Shop, Milano's Insurance Agency, DeMusis Brothers, Calabrese Oil, C. T. Warner Electric Co., Alphonse Anastasio, Matthew Anastasio, Central Cleaners, East Haven Department Store, Sidney Bailey and Arthur Riccio.

Also the East Haven Green Garage, Sidney Sansone, Wolfe's Bakery, Limonelli Plumbing, Dr. James Walsh, Alfred Bowden, Metzco Brothers, Thomas Geelan, John Mele, Henry DeVita and Joseph Annunziata.

The contests were conducted at the high school in co-operation with Principal Carl H. Garvin, John McFarland, head of the English department, and Louis Crestani and Miss Ruth Youngerman heads of the senior and junior high school art departments.

PEMBERTON'S FIRST CHILD

BOARD OF FINANCE ACT PROHIBITS ANY PUBLIC INCREASE

First Selectman Frank A. Barker today issued a clarifying statement in regards to recent town meeting action.

Barker said that while it was within the province of the meeting powers to lower any appropriation or tax rate recommended, the meeting had no authority to increase any appropriation, or any item thereof, or the rate of taxation.

The First Selectman said that because of this rule it was impossible for teachers to receive salary increases at the recent town meeting.

Previous to the meeting, the word had been about town that the budget would be returned to the Board of Finance for additional study, a move which would have given the teachers some hope for upward salary adjustments. But in short session of less than ten minutes the town adopted the budget and accepted the Board of Finance recommendations without debate.

Barker's complete statement follows: "It is evident from some of the inquiries made following the adoption of the budget at the adjourned town meeting on October 8th, that many people are under the mistaken belief that the teachers could have been granted the salary increases requested by some definite action at that town meeting. While the Board of Finance Act of the Town of East Haven empowers the town to act to decrease any appropriation or tax rate, recommended, it also in clear and plain language denies the town meeting the power to increase any appropriation, or any item thereof, or the rate of taxation, as recommended by the board of finance. The act provides as follows: Said meeting shall have power to decrease any appropriation or tax rate, recommended, it also in clear and plain language denies the town meeting the power to increase any appropriation, or any item thereof, or the rate of taxation, as recommended by the board of finance. 'The act goes a step further in declaring the finality of the board's decision by continuing as follows: 'but the rate of taxation recommended by said board of finance shall be final the appropriation recommended shall be the appropriations of the Town of East Haven for the ensuing year, unless such rate of taxation or such appropriations be decreased by said town meeting. The town meeting, therefore, can only decrease, but cannot increase the rate of taxation and the appropriations recommended, and falling that, the tax rate and appropriations recommended are final.'"

Willard A. Stephenson Attends Career School

Willard A. Stephenson of 22 Sidney Street, East Haven, has recently returned home after attending the 46th Home Office Career School at the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company in Hartford.

President Peter M. Fraser met with the class and gave a current report on company operations and investments. With two weeks of intensive study, Mr. Stephenson's course placed special emphasis on problems arising from the new Social Security law which requires readjustment of the distribution plans of personal life insurance.

Navyman T. R. Weed Is Great Lakes Grad

Instructed in care and maintenance of shipboard navigational equipment, Theodore R. Weed, interior communication electrician, fireman apprentice, USN, has recently graduated from the Naval Interior Communications Electrical School of the Service School Command, Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training Center.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weed of 1 Gordon Street, East Haven, he entered the Navy on March 23, receiving his Naval recruit training at Great Lakes. Prior to entering service, Weed graduated from East Haven High School and was employed by the Great Manufacturing Company here.

Students in Weed's specialized course are trained in the care of navigational equipment which includes electrical and magnetic compasses such as the synchro units, gyro-compass systems and related equipment.

Yale University Glee Club Sings Here November 7

The Yale University Glee Club, conducted by Marshall Bartholomew, will present a concert at the East Haven High School auditorium on Wednesday, November 7, at 8:30 P. M. for the benefit of the Old Stone Church building fund.

According to Benjamin Goodman, who arranged for the glee club's appearance here, he was able to get their last booking because the concert is for the church building fund. Tickets are available at the Old Stone Church office, Merit Clothes and the Loomis Temple of Music in New Haven, and from Goodman, 355 Short Beach Road. Reserved seats will be $1.80 and general admission $1.20.

HORNET HOPES

Frontier Woman

Down in Short Beach, an x-army man is going to publish a book on the life of a frontier woman. According to its author, Slub Cameron, the time will be titled, "Nellie of the River."

It is a saga of a great lady, steeped in the ways of men. One who lived aside the fame of an operative career to become the proprietor of a riverside tavern left to her by her grandfather.

The Talmadge Inn was once a great gathering place for the sporting element of New York and New Haven, especially in the summer months when vacations were spent in one place and transportation was a problem. There then gathered to change city raiment to rough country garb while time was alternately passed either fishing on the river or drinking at the bar.

The place had an appeal to men—not easily understood by most women. Great and near great rubbed shoulders with unknown authors, writers, people of the stage of times raised a glass in good fellowship to a general or a hero to well.

Yet never a person crossed its threshold who was bigger than the proprietor, toward her frowns. None was stronger willed nor less cowed by others' actions than was Nellie Green.

The Nellie of the present day was the best of the frontier women. In dress and actions she was typical of those hand pressed souls who though buffeted about by fair times and foul, had the fortitude and the bearing to stand unflinchingly—but the greatest respect.

"There was a time when the Nellie of the River was not the gray-haired, tired, overcast little lady of the past years. Instead she was a young, a real honest to God beauty, whose perfectly proportioned body was conditioned by years of superb horsemanship and summers of tireless swimming. The sparkle of health glowed from hidden fives in her eyes and long blond hair glinted like ripe wheat in the summer sun.

Born in New Haven, she moved to East Haven and like other children of the time carried the same unassuming, unassuming soul who the old ladies. She became a favorite with the outdoor workers and frequently was rewarded gratuitously after making the trip by horseback along the bank of the stream to the heights where men clipped out trap lines. In her own right she represented real money in those days but would be looked upon as a pittance today.

At other times the girl tended the drawbridge which marked the dividing line between Branford and East Haven. A strong swimmer, she braved turbulent tidal waters on numerous occasions to rescue ill-fated fishermen, and others who were swept off decks or ventured too deep in unaffairful waters.

Morally straight, she was also from the Innkeepers of lecherous men and once when accosted with a filly remark uttered by a student in New Haven, she denigrated from her horse and publicly whipped the culprit who, though cut by the lash of her skirt, was far more humiliated by her apologetic action.

Nellie had a great, powerful voice. Because she could have about every thing that money could buy at that time, it was trained by the best teachers. As a mezzo-soprano she toured cities throughout the east and became a member of the Whitney Opera Company of New York for a short while.

When she assumed proprietorship of the hotel, she retired from singing, but completely satisfied with the life it demanded.

The moderns of today are surprised but not too many years ago, she filled the Bell Palace one night for a benefit performance—for which she took no money.

One evening some years later, a group of New Haveners were enjoying a party in one of the hotel dining rooms. There was much singing and an Irish lad, a New Haven policeman, was lifting his tenor in numerous ballads to the delight of those assembled. The hour was late, long after midnight. A privileged few, outside the room, were watching the Irish lad as he sang. The cop disappeared, but soon returned with the vibrant organ tucked under one arm. "We won't leave," he declared, "until you sing at least one song."

Nellie, deflated, "I haven't sung in years." But the policeman, a jolly fellow, "You sing, you sing." Then the lady stepped on a slightly raised platform and clasped her hands before her. An air of expectancy filled the room. Softly, with assurance of a born artist, her voice carried to each tiny creature. One of the outsiders uttered, "My God," he said, "I've never heard a voice like that before." The cop continued, until the end was reached. Then everyone in the room stood and applauded. Not because it was Nellie who sang but an artist had finished a number. Then she sang another song. Rich, pure notes flooded the room. With apparent effort, she found an unexpected power and the room was silent when she finished, a tribute far more genuine than the spontaneous applause which followed a moment later.

For nearly an hour she lifted her voice in song. No modern numbers blundered her lips but she completely satisfied with the life it demanded. The last Rose of Summer, delighted all. In that hour she was stripped of the veneer which made her a calculating proprietor of a riverside hotel and instead blossomed with the innate qualities which made her a friend and confident of great artists, like the writers, Ella Wheeler Wilcox and Jack London. Then her voice became husky. She apologized that she could no longer sing. She stepped off the platform and departed into the kitchen.

Even the Irish tenor was flat after that performance.

Countless others cracked that voice. Nellie was more generous than the world suspects. When one of her favorite bartenders was ill in a New Haven hospital, forgotten by nearly all his family, just a name out of the sport pages of the early twentieth century, Nell Talmadge was a frequent visitor to his bedside, always leaving him with a stable bank note and further assuring him that his hospital bill would be paid and he could always have a job with her.

"God-hearted men, who perhaps had made a single mistake and were shamed upon by their own hands in her retreat and were given jobs until they themselves became stable."

Not many persons attended the wake of Nell Talmadge last Monday night in East Haven. They weren't expected to—for hers was a world of the past. Occasionally some older man or woman would come in to the room and gaze at the figure sleeping with an orchid pinned on her dress. They would murmur some solace to a tight band of survivors and then retire. In puny defiance, one man, 86 years old, announced he was 84 and he could talk to her. He said that when she was pressing on his life was rolled into past years and no one could stretch the imagination back to the glories when Nell ruled the river.

Sometime later, in a Main Street Tavern, a worker came in and asked for his niece. He quietly sat beside another man and bent his head in conversation. The woman was a wonderful woman. Her Branford and East Haven will be described too. For "Nellie of the River" could be a story of love and compassion and it could be titled, "The Last Rose of Summer" because last Sunday an era passed.

GRIDDERS IN FINE FETTLE FOR SEYMOUR GAME HERE

A peppy Branford High School football team, captained and coached by Ed Henry, is in fine fettle for the game with the Seymour team on Saturday at Seymour, with unusual vim this week.

Joe Goeke's Wildcats, sorely pressed for substitutes, will move into the game with the full line of substitutes, with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Against Shelton last month, the Valley team looked potentially strong but injuries have slowed down the gain of an eleven which has size and speed.

Against Seymour indicates that three linemen who have been out since the opener are now ready to play and Coach Warren Sampson and Fletcher Ferguson of Branford are hard pressed to keep the locals optimistic without becoming overconfident.

Branford has improved rapidly week by week and is in the shape for the clash with all odds resting to play. Joe Paul will be a starter for the offense and the defense.

Any girl in the Branford Jr. High school is welcome to join the group.

The project is one of the winter activities of the Branford Recreation Advisory Board under the supervision of Mrs. Armstrong.

Long Runs Feature Army's 34-25 Win Over Notre Dame

A hard hitting Army team cracked the Branford defense in the second quarter of the game, defeating the team in the Junior Football League on Friday afternoon at the home of the team, the Branford Hotel. The game was played on a field which was in excellent condition.

Army's offense was led by a pair of running backs, one of whom scored a touchdown in the second quarter. The defense was led by a pair of linebackers, one of whom made a key interception in the third quarter.

The game was a close one, with both teams showing excellent play. In the end, Army's superior offense proved to be the difference, as they won the game by a score of 34-25.

Branford Upsets Lyman Hall 20-0

Branford's doughty little band of football players became a major factor in the Branford Football League last Saturday at Hammer Field by turning in a convincing victory over Lyman Hall of Wallingford, 20-0.

The well knit Hornets, its pony backfield operating smoothly out of the single wing system, sped for long gains as they tore into the Lyman invaders.

Biggest gun in the Branford attack was captain Bobby Mason, who though he failed to score nevertheless was a will-of-the-wisp back, seldom was brought down by a single tackler. Touchdowns went to Matt and George, who were assisted by a pair of familiar figures, Russ Gordon and Billy General.

Gordon came through with a pair of scores on the receiving end of a Mason pass in the opening period and the other William fifty yard scamper of a punt return midway in the second stanza. General's 61 yard dash was the prettiest of the day and came in the last session when he scurried out on the left side, evading three would-be tacklers in the open field.

So savage was the work of the line, led by Bob Massey, that Wallingford was held to no gain on a line plunger and backer. Devin picked up a couple through the center on the next play General darted off right end and although hemmed in reversed his field twice to the left and backer picked up Devin and sent into paydirt territory 61 yards in a single play.

Wakenham, a basketball player is an able pass receiver and the two halves are capable enough to handle the extra play by placement and Coach Warren Sampson used his entire bench in the remaining four minutes.

Half showed little in the way of a passing game, shooting only four passes, one of which was completed. Devin and another line player, Mason then flashed around right end and Mason's 50 yard dash, which started right end for 30 yards and set the score. The extra point was blocked.

But in the second quarter, the Branford defense was tested when Bill Pivonis passed to Lacey who scored on a 25 yard dash. The score: Branford added the XP.

Young Johnny Knecht, whose accurate passing was from the side of Army all afternoon, then turned to Billy Anderson, who brought the first-inning scoring position and then raced through tackle for 22 yards to score. A kick by McCarty passed made the score 14-13.

The Hornets then took a 14-13 lead on the edge once again but the extra point backfired and Aniskovitch blocked a pass to Knecht for the third time. The XP failed.

The game took a dramatic turn when Lacey, who had been a disaster Army line through McCarty's punting, took a 14-13 lead on the edge once again but the extra point backfired and Aniskovitch blocked a pass to Knecht for the third time. The XP failed.

Easties Unleash Power In 25-0 Romp Over Milford

Undefeated, united and unscathed, East Haven's record at the Football mark of the Huskies in the center of the end zone. The Easties unleashed their power in a 25-0 romp over Milford on Saturday at West End Field, defeating the Milford Indians in a spectacular display of punting pyrotechnics in the second half.

During the first half it appeared as if the Easties might have met their match, defensively at least. The Indians reversed the flow of modern day line play and slashed repeatedly until Tom Rossetti set a record on himself to carry inside the guards. Then the march was on.

Three of the four scores were the result of Rossetti's accurate passing and the fourth was a fifty 84 yard dash down the sidelines by Ed Henry after a pass interception. Henry's score was the play that broke the game wide open for the Easties. The punter, Henry added an extra point, the only successful try of the afternoon.

Rugged Bob Holmes and Johnny Dulhane sparked the negative Milford attack which, though it managed to keep the Easties from scoring, was unable to do much more than to keep the Easties from scoring.

Shifting the strategy of recent weeks, Rossetti's passes were marked by the punter, Henry added an extra point, the only successful try of the afternoon.

Army Racks Mustangs 26-20 On Lacey's Run

The colorful, high scoring Army team turned in its third straight victory over Monday afternoon Mustangs in a Junior League football game, sponsored by the local Branch at Hammer Field.

The winners showed a pair of unstoppable threats in Pete Lacey who broke broken field running kept the Mustangs from scoring. Bobby Pivonis whose steady tackling was one of Army's key factors in the win.

Army counted early when Lacey unleashed a pass to Pivonis for a 7D but the extra point by Lacey, Bobby Pivonis evened the score when he snared a sleeper pass from Manny Dago and raced ten yards to the end zone. Army's conversion kicked on the try for the seventh time in as many Mustangs games.

It was a short-lived moment for Bobby Doughtery raced 50 yards to the end zone on a 12 yard extra point was lost. Lacey with his aerial dodging in the field zipped to Army's third score, kicking his field on two occasions.

Joe Tansley brought his team into the end zone when he snatched a quarter but Doughtery on a 20 yard run, registered the first Army score. Army counter but lost. Lacey with his aerial dodging in the field zipped to Army's third score, kicking his field on two occasions.

Harbor St. Underdog In Saturday Game Vs. Laurel St. Combine

One of the most important games of the 1934 and 1935 football seasons of the Branford Recreation Advisory Board was the game between Harbor Street and Laurel St. Combine on Saturday morning at 10, when unbeaten Laurel Street school sponsored one of the best Harbor Street teams.

Harbor Street's first game, the Harbor Street team had become a vastly improved team. The team was led by a pair of running backs, one of whom scored a touchdown in the second quarter. The defense was led by a pair of linebackers, one of whom made a key interception in the third quarter.

The game was a close one, with both teams showing excellent play. In the end, Harbor Street's superior offense proved to be the difference, as they won the game by a score of 14-13.

How many horses in a nickel?

Why, 2.14, of course!

No, we're not playing games with you. We're just saying that you'd need more than two real horses to do the same amount of work in an hour that five cents' worth of electricity can do.

Sounds silly, doesn't it? Imagine having to hitch up a couple of horses every time you wanted to mix a cake, use your vacuum cleaner, run your washing machine or refrigerator.

Well, did you know there's enough horsepower in a nickel's worth of electricity to mix three cakes a week for a year, or vacuum your living room rug twice a week for a year, or do two weeks' wash, or provide refrigeration for 1-2/3 days.

Or, put that little old nickel to work down cellar and the oil burner will heat your home for 1-1/3 days, a band saw will operate for 8-1/2 hours. A nickel will give you the use of a home freezer for a day or a ventilating fan for two days.

Now that beats a couple of horses any day, doesn't it?

There's just no getting around it. Electricity is the biggest bargain in any household budget.
