P-T Council To Hold Forum On E-H School Needs

An open forum on the East Haven school system and titled "Better Schools, Better Pupils, Better Citizens" will be presented soon under the sponsorship of the Council of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Flood said that speakers will be presented to discuss educational needs, and to debate educational issues.

Edgar Suprenant, head of the School Study Group, will direct the preparation of the plans for the forum which will be concerned with presenting the relative merits of two current plans centered about the suggested construction of a junior high school.

Superintendent William E. Gillis told the meeting that such a forum would help clarify the issues for the townspeople.

In other business, Mrs. William Deggall, president of the Dental Council, announced that the dental program for the schools had started.

Mrs. Fred appointed Mrs. Pasquale Stredo as safety chairman and Mrs. Edward Kronberg as By-Laws Chairman.

Committee To Meet With Bus Company Next Wednesday

A committee representing residents of the Riverside and other areas affected by a recent cut-back in service by the Connecticut Company will meet with representatives of the company next Wednesday for the purpose of discussing several alternative arrangements.

Mathew Anastasio, GOP Town Committee chairman, who is acting as head of the group, said that the company will be asked to consider the possibility of routing several Branford - New Haven runs around the town green to accommodate residents in the Riverside area.

"We're hoping to get one trip an hour, anyway, and we'd like to have a couple of trial runs to see how these would make out," he said.

The meeting was called after the bus company representatives and a committee of East Haven residents met September 30 in the offices of the State Public Utilities Commission in Hartford.

Stevenson Volunteers Organize Members Here

Twelve residents of the East Haven area have been enlisted, so far, in a membership drive conducted by the Volunteers for Stevenson group for greater New Haven, according to William Muehl, of Maple Street, Foxon.

Stores Display Students' Fire Prevention Posters

Approximately 50 posters depicting the hazards of fire and urging precautions were distributed among the merchants of the town this week in observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

The posters are the products of the artistic endeavors of students in grades seven through twelve at the High School. The posters were painted under the direction of Louis Cresentini, of the High School art department and Miss Ruth Youngerman, art teacher for the seventh and eighth grades.

The posters will be judged next week, first and second prizes to be awarded in the seventh and eighth grade class and in the high school division. A number of honorable mentions will be chosen, and token awards made.

In addition, a number of essays on fire prevention have been screened by English teachers in the junior and senior divisions of the school system and three or four entries have been selected from each class. High School essays were written with the guidance of

Delinquent Taxpayers Warned To Heed Notices

Delinquent taxpayers were warned by Tax Collector Herman Blackbath this week to make prompt payments in order to avoid additional expenses and embarrassment. He said that a list of those owing back taxes was now being compiled and that final notices will be mailed.

The tax collector said that taxpayers failing to heed the final notices would be subject to legal action, and that tax warrants would be issued to the sheriff for collection.

Mrs. W. O. Parker Named Head Of Education Board

Mrs. W. Oren Parker, of 49 Foote Road, was elected chairman of the East Haven Board of Education at its organization meeting Friday evening in the high school.

Mrs. Parker has been a member of the board for two years, having served on the School and Athletics committees. Mrs. John Flanagan was elected vice-chairman.

Mrs. Parker appointed the following committees for the coming year: Schools and Athletics, Mrs. Howard Doolittle, chairman, Jack Allen and Charles Sizemore; Buildings and Cafeteria, James Ematrudo, chairman, Vincent Cusano Jr. and Mrs. John Flanagan; Finance and Transportation, Burton Reed, chairman, Mrs. Parker and Charles Copeland.

Mrs. Parker's husband is an instructor in the drama department at Yale University.

Fred Flagg of 33 Center Avenue, Momaugun was appointed custodian in the High School, duties to begin at once.

Members in attendance at this meeting were Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Flanagan, Mr. Ematrudo, Mr. Cusano, Mr. Allen, Mr. Copeland, Mr. Reed and Mr. Sizemore.

The next meeting of the school board will take place Friday, October 24.

Women's GOP Club & Young Republicans Meet Tuesday Nite

Town committee chairman Mathew Anastasio announces that a combined meeting of the East Haven Republican's Woman's Club and the Young G. O. P. will be held in Republican headquarters, High Street on Tuesday evening, at 8 P. M.

Proceeding this meeting the town committee will meet in a special session in the town hall.

On Friday, October 17th, also in headquarters, a "Meet Your Candidate" meeting will be held, at which time Mrs. John E. Crommey and Adelbert Mautte, candidates for the General Assembly will be present. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

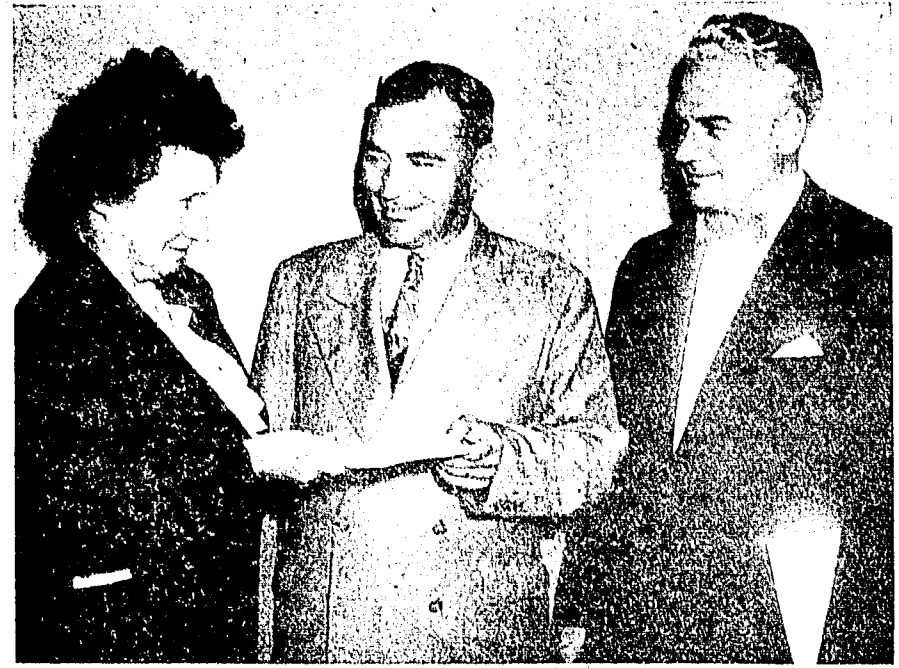

Looking For Publicity?

If your club or organization has announcements or news it would like to get into print, send your items to THE EAST HAVEN NEWS, Box 215 or call HO 7-5811 (excepting Thursdays and Sundays). Deadline is Wednesday morning.

The English department under John McPartland.

The essays are now being read by a panel of three judges, consisting of Paul Stevens, of the Journal-Courier; Mrs. Vincent Cusano, of the Register; and Jonathan Czar, editor of the East Haven News. Prizes and honorable mentions will also be awarded in both divisions.

Opening Pledge

Frank Barker, town first selectman, officially opened the United Fund and Red Cross drive for this area by presenting his contribution pledge to Mrs. Alvin Sanford and Arthur Haesche, co-chairmen of the community fund campaign. Under the slogan, "Give Enough For All 48" the campaign will continue through Wednesday, October 22.

Easties Confident Of Winning Friday Tilt With Shelton

East Haven's prize football, Danny Mautte will be back in action this Friday night, when the local high school team invades Shelton in a crucial contest.

The 147-pound senior was taken out of action temporarily to keep a chest injury, aggravated by the rough and tumble of a game against Southington, from developing any complications.

The Easties will be facing a tough team when they meet the Gaels in a game which may decide who will be the top team in the Housatonic League.

Coneh Frank Crisafi is confident that his boys have the stuff to face up to the Sheltoners, who rolled up a 26 to 13 score over Mill-High last Saturday and who remain undefeated in the four contests to date.

One of the main threats to the host team will be swift-footed Dom Pettinelli, halfback for the Blue and Gold, who romped over the St. Mary line for two touchdowns last week.

The Easties have one of the heaviest and toughest lines around, with boys like Johnny Esposito, Mario Mazillo, Paul Morman and Richard Orlando providing a terrific defensive nucleus.

49 Building Permits Issued Last Month Include 18 Homes

A total of 49 building permits, including permission for the construction of 13 dwellings estimated to cost a total of $150,000, were issued by the office of Building Inspector Clement Catalano during the month of September.

Other permits granted by the office included three plumbing permits at $2 each; five at $1 each, and 32 at $6 each. Twenty-four septic tank permits were granted at $2 apiece, 22 street excavations at $1 and 80 electric permits at $2.

Oil burner installation permits at $2 each numbered 41, and two additional permits were granted for $2 each.

Three licenses were issued to electrical contractors, at $5 each and one at $10, while three plumbing licenses at $30 each and two oil burner contracting licenses were issued at $5 each.

Two range oil storage permits at 50 cents each were granted and five extra electrical inspections for code violations were made at a charge of $2 each. Total income from fees amounted to $1,109.

Lay Plans For Scholarship Fund In Memory Of Teacher

Plans have been initiated for the raising of a self-sustaining scholarship fund in honor of Joseph F. Mayo, social science teacher at East Haven High School, who died last week.

To be known as the Joseph Mayo Memorial Scholarship Fund, the money will be raised by a campaign among town civic organizations and individuals, including former graduates of East Haven High. The amount, to be raised through a successive series of collections, will be placed in a trust fund for investment, the earnings of which will be used for scholarships, the principal being left untouched.

A committee is now engaged in drawing up plans for the establishment of a self-perpetuating board of trustees to manage the fund. The committee is, at present, composed of the following teachers and administrative officials of East Haven High: John McPartland, Mrs. Laura Coulter, Edward Suggs, Miss Zita Matthews, David Reed, Caryle Frawley, all of the faculty, and Carl Garvin, principal, and Thomas Murray, assistant principal.

In addition, two representatives from the fifteen classes graduated from the school since it was established in 1936 will be selected to serve on the committee. Of these thirty representatives a number will be picked later for the fund board of trustees.

Contributions to the fund will be accepted at any time, Mr. Garvin announced, and may be sent directly to the high school.

The scholarship fund will be the first of its kind for the school.

Minstrel Show To Be Presented at Park Methodist's

An old-fashioned Minstrel Show will be presented November 13 and 14, in the Park Methodist Church Parish House, Townsend Avenue, Morris Cove, under the sponsorship of the Married Couples Club of the church.

William Prendergast, who is in charge of the production, has selected the chorus and end men for the show, and rehearsals are being held regularly in the parish house Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Prendergast, is chairman of the ticket committee; Mrs. Raymond Spelcher, is in charge of the boosters committee; and Mrs. John Strandberg, of East Haven, is in charge of the music for the show.

Tickets for the production will be available to the public. Admission will be 69 cents including tax.

Debate 'Surplus' At Town Meeting Before Approving New Budget

Voters Last Chance To Register Coming Up

New voters will have their last chance to register this Saturday, and the following Saturday (October 18) from 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. in the town hall, the registrars of voters announce.

Morris Cove's 59 Groaners Sponsor Halloween Parade

The 59 Groaners, Inc. will sponsor the annual Halloween night festivities for Morris Cove children up to the sixth grade on Thursday, October 30, Walter Kane, publicity director, announced.

Mr. Kane said that numerous prizes would be awarded for children participating in a costume parade which will form at the sea wall and march up Thompson Avenue as in previous years.

In addition, he said, between 500 and 600 bags of candy will be passed out to the youngsters participating.

A meeting of the Groaners took place last night at the Goal Post Restaurant and about 600 feet of movies shown of the annual Morris Cove Day activities this summer.

Redevelopment Director To Address Chamber

D. Charles Boussole, director of the Momaugun Redevelopment plan will be guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday evening, in Florio's Restaurant, Horman Scharf, secretary, announced.

Mr. Boussole will give a report on the project proposed for the Momaugun beach area. Plans for the project are now in Washington, for final approval before being presented to a formal town meeting here.

Safety Divisions Of Town Unhappy Over New Budget

Failure of the Fire and Police departments to get a requested $200 salary increase for members was privately being viewed by some as a blow to the morale of both departments, the "News" learned.

Members of both departments received, instead, a $100 increase, as against $200 salary boosts in other town departments.

Requested budget of the Fire Department amounted to a total of $91,947 including $55,850 for salaries for regular personnel plus an additional man. The salaries total represented increases and salary boosts of $200.

The Board of Finance trimmed the total to $76,912 thus providing an across the board increase of about $100.

According to one source, the members of the public safety departments felt that they had been discriminated against, since the other personnel in departments had received $200 increases.

Annual increments were independent of these requested salary increases.

Last week, First Selectman Frank Barker defended the Board of Finance for trimming a total of $106,558 from departmental requests. He insisted that, if they had all been granted, the tax rate would have had to be boosted an additional mill.

Barker maintained that the major cuts were made in the education department, where $30,000 were excised, and in capital expenditures which were reduced by $52,000.

"Any further reductions would have to be in payroll accounts," he claimed.

The first selectman asserted that the increased costs were due to a rapid growth in the town population, while the increase in new construction was not sufficient to offset this rise in expenses.

In addition to the increased needs, such as additional teachers and custodians, which increased the payroll by $30,000, and $16,000 worth of additional payments for new school bonds, the costs of services and equipment were also going up, he said.

Another member of the meeting raised the question regarding a $34,200 deficiency in last year's school budget, which was met by an over-expenditure authorized by the Board of Finance. He wanted to know if the deficit had been paid, and when Barker replied that it was, asked how it could have been paid when the original budget was "in the red."

The first selectman replied that the deficit had been met out of the closing year's budget and that the estimated surplus was "over and above" what had been paid out.

A representative of the Volunteer firemen asked the Board of Finance to consider using surplus moneys to buy equipment for the volunteers, who, he claimed, were insufficiently protected when they answered emergency calls.

One other query was addressed to town officials concerning the surplus, and whether it would mean another increase of tax rate next year. A man raising the question argued that if the surplus was used this year to stave off a tax increase, the boost would have to come next year.

"I don't mind paying the three mill increase this year, but I'm against being tagged again for more in future years," he declared.

Barker answered that the surplus was used to keep from increasing the tax rate this year, but that it did not necessarily mean an increase in the budget of the following fiscal year.

Prior to the consideration of the budget, and after the meeting was opened and Henry Antz elected moderator, the first business before the meeting was the "election" of three officers to the board of Trustees of the Hagaman Memorial Library. A mild surprise turned up when a rival slate was presented to oppose the three members presented for reelection. The incumbents, Ellsworth E. Cowles, Alan Bonwill and Paul H. Stevens, were reelected by a standing vote of 159 to 27 for the defeated slate.

When the meeting took up the consideration of item four on the call authorizing the selectman to "borrow money in the name of the town in payment of current expenses and outstanding obligations and to issue a note or notes," the objection was raised that "out-

Remored opposition to a million dollar budget and a three mill tax increase advanced by the Barker Administration failed to materialize sufficiently to forestall acceptance at the annual town meeting Monday night.

A scant two hundred taxpayers turned out for the meeting which voted a new tax rate of 29 mills and accepted the $1,069,265 budget as read by Town Clerk Margaret Tucker. However, a number of questions were raised in a somewhat confusing debate over an estimated surplus of $31,473.62.

Democratic Selectman Frank S. Clancy, who was defeated by Barker in the election last year, wanted to know how the surplus figure had been arrived at. "How can you say that you have a surplus, if you haven't yet closed the books?" he asked.

Apparently taking the question as politically needling, John J. Mulhern, of the Board of Finance, rose to reply: "As Mr. Clancy plainly knows, the figure represents an estimation of the surplus expected from returns by several departments for the past year."

The Democratic selectman then objected that the town clerk had read the call as saying "from unappropriated surplus" and again demanded to know how the town administration could claim to have a surplus of "thirty-one thousand and some odd dollars" when the books were not closed.

Mr. Clancy later told the East Haven News that he was convinced the surplus figure was "picked out of the air."

On the other hand, Mr. Barker maintained that the surplus had been similarly estimated in former years and that the estimates were generally pretty close.

Examination of a copy of the town budget available to the public before and after the meeting showed the words "from unappropriated surplus" had been used in referring to the $31,473.62 figure.

Mr. Clancy asked from what departments the surplus would be obtained, and was told that returned sums would be forthcoming from the Board of Education, the Fire and Police departments.

Another member of the meeting raised the question regarding a $34,200 deficiency in last year's school budget, which was met by an over-expenditure authorized by the Board of Finance. He wanted to know if the deficit had been paid, and when Barker replied that it was, asked how it could have been paid when the original budget was "in the red."

UNITED FUND

This week the United Fund began its annual drive for funds for needy agencies. The goal this year is close to 1.5 million dollars and it will require a tremendous amount of hard work by volunteer workers and generous contributions by all of us to attain this goal.

We think that the idea behind the United Fund makes it worthy of every ounce of support that it can get from this community. The principle of one campaign to collect funds for all of the causes that require public contributions to carry on their good works appeals to us. While the United Fund hasn't quite reached the point where it embraces every one of these agencies, it has made great strides in this direction and has already vastly reduced the number of separate drives for funds that are made here. Given the support that it deserves it will continue this trend and could easily achieve its goal of one campaign for all in a relatively short time.

Before the United Fund came into being, the tendency was all in the other direction and each year hundreds of thousands of dollars in funds to this community which was already hard pressed to provide workers for the campaigns in existence at the time. The duplication of effort was appalling. Many townspeople were irked at the number of campaigns and contributions to the most worthy causes suffered because of this fact.

In the short space of time since the United Fund came into being it has not only held this trend to more and more separate campaigns but has actually succeeded in reversing the trend so that now the tendency is toward fewer campaigns for funds. This is exactly what the public demanded. It is now up to us to insure the success of the United Fund as well as its many member agencies by giving as generously as we can afford.

A FITTING MEMORIAL

The raising of a scholarship fund in memory of the late Joseph Mayer, social science teacher, will soon get under way, once the plan for collecting and administering it is completed. Certainly a finer memorial to this great teacher cannot be conceived. First of its kind in the school system here, the scholarship fund ought to have the support of every loyal member of the East Haven community.

WE'RE NOT WORRIED

This election year marks the most intense get-out-the-vote campaign in the nation's history. Never before has the American public been under such a siege of directives to register for Election Day.

Whether these drives are effective or whether this campaign has aroused the interest of the electorate enough to make more of them want to exercise the franchise, we don't know. But the response has been tremendous.

PUSILLANIMOUS POLLSTERS

One of the more interesting, even amusing, phenomena of this election year is the eagerness of the pollsters. They recite statistics showing the voters' respective preference for the presidential candidates, but lack backbone to the point of supination in avoiding any semblance of predicting the November fourth outcome.

At the start of the campaign, one nationwide poll showed that 60 percent of the voters favored a vast preference margin, something like 61 percent to 37 for his opponent, Gov. Stevenson. Subsequent polls showed, contrary to expectations, no decrease in the percentage of voters classifying themselves as being in the GOP camp this year.

To take a recent example: a poll by George Gallup showed Texas 46 percent for Eisenhower but only 34 percent for the Republican party. On the other hand, Stevenson had a 67 percent preference margin his party ed by an extra percentage point, or 51 percent.

DYING ISSUE

With the announcement by General Eisenhower that he will give the public a financial accounting of himself, the furor over the fiscal practices of the leading candidates plainly bids to subside into a dead issue. Both sides have moved onto other fertile grounds.

The Democrats, touchy over the honorury of the Nixon effort, were sure to be scrupulously abject in their discussion on a San Francisco News story that the California senate had received 25,000 letters postage free in a political poll.

It is doubtful that a revival of the debate over fiscal practices would accomplish anything. The explanations offered to date haven't cleared the air over moral questions involved, because the so-called moral questions run smack-dab into political reality. In the meantime, other issues still remain to be treated, as Election Day draws near.

AMERICAN PRODUCTION

The Autumnal splendor which delights us every year is a purely American production. No, we're not trying to be facetious or suspicious. This interesting chain for our native flora is advanced by a Washington University botanist.

In a book titled "Plants, Man and Life" in which he traces the effects of man on plants, Edgar Anderson, biologist and author, points out that you see when most of our country-side is drowned in masses of yellow, red and brown are due mainly to the "foreigners"—plants imported from Europe.

In effect, then, while these aliens remain undetected during most of the year, their European origin comes to light when they fail to initiate the Autumnal blush of our native flora.

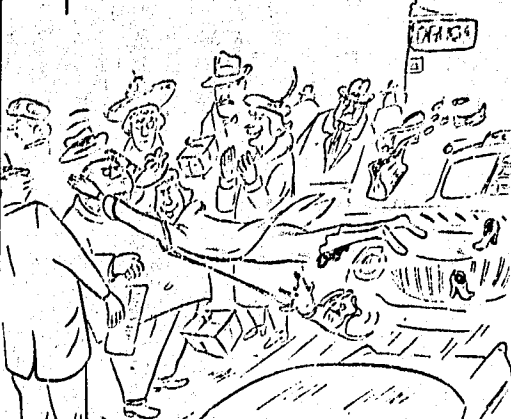

THE YANKEES AGAIN

There is no joy in the mountains. A hangover from the borough from Canaris to Greenup, Black despair engulfs the Heights and presses upon Williamsburg. Men pace the shores of Sheephead and the Governor and gaze upon the waters. In Flatbush children weep. In prospect Park lovers walk sadly, unlovers despair. For Joe Black availed not, nor did Hodges hit. The Dodgers have been done in again.

But around Yankee Stadium there is exultation, hilarity, rapture. The mighty Yankees are champions still, the flag renews flying over the house that Ruth built, that DiMaggio furnished, that Mize renovated. Once again the spirit goes up. "Who can beat the Yankees?" and the ceiling weeps. "Who's your hero?"

Research groups and editors of dailies and weeklies have listed an unusually large number of states as in the fifty-fifty category, though giving a "slight lead" in many cases to the Republican candidate.

Political Season
"Oh politicians never die, they just run once too often" is the cold reality given to millions of voters. Politicians of long standing usually do remain ardently interested in and active in both local and national level as long as they are able to participate.

During the presidency of Grover Cleveland, he had many battles with the Senate but not along very well with the House of Representatives. He was awakened one night by a servant who said that there were burglars in the house, and he sleepily replied, "In the Senate, my dear, but not in the house."

Alexander Pope as a young man wondered whether he should enter into the banner of any particular political party, and he asked the question of Joseph Addison, whose answer was: "You will never deserve the praise of the whole nation, unless you content yourself with the praise of half of it."

A student in school once wrote, "Seasonal occupations are occupations where a person can only work in a certain season, for instance in canneries, harvest hands, etc." And many a critical and unfriendly comment about politicians are commonly made such as "I'm not a politician, I'm a farmer."

Political views become so heated in a national election year that many people take what steps they can to avoid clashes between supporters of different sides which might embarras them.

The Harvard Club of New York is one of those groups who are always looking for a good cause to support in a paragraph in its recent bulletin. The bulletin says that the club has elected a new president, John G. Thompson, who was elected president by just one vote, and so was elected unanimously.

There is an old story that concerns the Southern farmer who explained that he was a Democrat because his father, his grandfather and his great-grandfather before him had been Democrats. The Northern Republican talking with him said, "Suppose your father had been a Democrat?"

Political Spotlight

with Jerry Hallas

Let's take a look at unemployment: On two occasions it was war and only war that saved the country, from severe unemployment under Democrat administration. Unemployment in February 1950, was 4,684,000. This was the highest since August, 1941. Both dates were shortly before the United States went to war.

The CIO News commenting on unemployment in April, 1950, said: "The situation is serious." Even after the start of the Korean war, unemployment was a serious problem. Walter B. Reuther, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said last February: "Unemployment in 1952 creates more hardship than unemployment in 1932."

Economic storms ahead: Many economists say our so-called prosperity is based on the quicksands of war, preparations of greater wars, Government handouts, grants, loans, subsidies and wasteful spending.

The Democrat machine is afraid to face the facts. That's why it uses statistical tricks, loaded figures, half-truths, and untruths to produce a phony picture of the state of the Union.

Waste and maladministration: There are 52 million Federal taxpayers, but the Internal Revenue Bureau prints 700 million income tax forms, more than 13 blanks for every single one filed.

General Services Administration officials told a Congressional committee in June, 1951 that the Executive Branch of the government is operating 19,888 automobiles — not including the Defense Department. The government employs 7,052 chauffeurs. The cars cost nearly $6,000,000.

The State Department has spent more than $6,000,000 for liquor since 1942 — about 4,800,000 "flits" at $1.25 a bottle (tax-free) providing 122 million cocktails.

It has to be paid sometime: Government debt, like private debt, must eventually be paid, and the only way to pay it is through taxes collected from our people.

Instead of reducing the public debt in these so-called "prosperous" times, the Democrats have spent us deeper into debt. More spending leads to more taxes. Higher taxes result in higher costs and higher prices for all we buy, including Government purchases.

Just Plain Talk: The Administration talks peace but cannot end a stalemate war in Korea which is draining the Nation's manhood and resources. It talks defense, but defense lags and our people are told they must live under the shadow of war for years to come.
