Sketch Of New School

Shown above is an artist's concept of the type of structure to be used for the eleven-room elementary school to be erected in Foxon and on Gerish Ave. The buildings, designed by Schilling and Goldbecker, architects, will be identical but will have substructures suited to the particular conditions of these respective sites. They will be constructed so as to accommodate possible future additions.

Ex-DEM Committee Man Joins 3-Way Fray Over Education Policy

Hits Stand Of "GOP Leaders" On Mom. School

A criticism of "Republican leaders" for failing to support Momauquin residents who demanded six rooms for an addition to the Momauquin School as against the three rooms authorized on recommendation of the Board of Education was launched this week by Mrs. John Sullivan, Democratic candidate for a two-year term on the board.

Barker Tells Fate Of $25,000

An unexpected balance of approximately $25,000 from the bond issue issued for the William E. Gills school will be used for the only purpose the law permits: retirement of these particular bonds and interest on them, First Selectman Frank Barker declared today.

Sizemore Rips Gartland For Exerting Control

An attack from an unexpected quarter this week was unleashed against Democratic Town Chairman James F. Gartland and at least one of the party's candidates for the Board of Education. It came from Charles Sizemore, Democratic member of the school board who was named as a member of the party's town committee in a controversy earlier this year over the selection of a superintendent.

Motion To Quash Charges Against Piggery Operator Denied By Judge

A defense motion to quash charges against Pasquale Mellillo, charged with bringing garbage into East Haven without securing a permit in violation of town ordinances, was denied by Judge Frank Daley of Branford, in a ruling issued this week.

NEWS Addresses Questions To School Board Nominees

In order to help the public acquaint itself with the views of candidates for the Board of Education, the East Haven News has prepared a set of questions to be directed at all 12 candidates. The answers will be published in the next issue of the News.

District Tax Offices 'Studied' By Longobardi

A plan "to study the possibility of establishing temporary tax collecting stations in the outlying districts of the town" was announced Friday by Salvatore Longobardi, Democratic candidate for tax collector.

Claims Endorsement Of Town Clerk Misrepresented

Democrats are deliberately misrepresenting the retirement status of Miss Margaret Tucker, town clerk, in an effort to pull votes, Jack Lawler, GOP campaign chairman charged today.

Local Airman 2 Others In Taxi Trek Across France

BORDEAUX AIR BASE, France (Special) "East is East and West is West," said a man named Kipling, but the rest of his famous line, about "never the twain shall meet," has been proven wrong by two airmen with the 12th Air Rescue Group.

The two airmen are A/1c Larry Lombardo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lombardo of 55 Alling St., West Haven, and S/Sgt Tony Iaguess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Iaguess, 25 Harwick St., East Haven.

Lombardo and Iaguess, who played with WMCA sports teams back in their home town area, were reunited in the service when they both were assigned to the 12th Air Rescue Group back in May, 1952.

From that date, the pair of airmen stuck together—during the Rescue outfit's training period at West Palm Beach, Florida and its overseas movement which wound up here at Bordeaux Air Base.

No sooner had the two arrived at Bordeaux late in Oct. 1952, than they bumped into still another airman from their section of Connecticut—S/Sgt Fred A. Perrillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Perrillo, 14 Franklin St., New Haven.

Lombardo and Iaguess hadn't known Perrillo personally back in Connecticut, but Lombardo's parents were acquainted with Perrillo's.

Two of the three men, Lombardo and Perrillo, made history of a sort recently when the great French strike forced them to travel from Nice, on the Riviera, to Bordeaux by taxi, a distance of 350 miles.

Lombardo, a 21-year-old administrative specialist with the 12th Air Rescue Group, enlisted in the Air Force in Sept. 1951, after graduating from West Haven High School and working for the Longines-Wittnour Watch Company.

He went through basic training at Sampson Air Force Base, N. Y., then attended technical school at

Elem. School Building Committee Issues Report On Plans' Progress

The Elementary School Building Committee in releasing a sketch of two proposed elementary school buildings, today also issued a progress report through its chairman, George Lettis. The report is printed below.

Open Against Southington

Again, this year, the East Haven High football team will open its season against Southington High when they meet on the latter's grid-iron Saturday afternoon.

Crisafi, who has been working the team hard in preparation for the game, expects a good game from the rivals, although Southington has also lost a number of last year's veterans.

Two things were at once apparent to the Committee. First, it would be impossible to have the schools ready for use in September of this year. Secondly, there would have to be the most expert and careful planning if satisfactory schools were to be built within the budget voted for the purpose.

The selection of architects was, therefore, a matter of highest importance, and this Committee invited all architects to submit a statement of their experience in school planning.

Through the following month the Committee met two or three times weekly in order to complete interviews with the eight firms, and to visit completed schools built under their planning and supervision.

Since that time the progress has been very rapid. The necessary topographical studies and surveys have been made. Preliminary floor plan studies and exterior sketches have been made. The problems of land grades, drainage site development, plumbing, lighting and heating as well as sub-soil conditions, have been studied by the engineers and architects and discussed with the Committee.

As a result of this very prompt action, the building program has reached the point where the final preliminary plans are almost ready for presentation to the local and state Boards of Education, and to the state Board of Health, for their required approval.

"I have been a life-long member of the Democratic Party and I intend to stay a member, but I cannot approve or support the actions of the local party leaders. It looks as if Mr. Gartland intends to demand absolute obedience to him or to cut off the political head of anyone who dares to put town or school welfare ahead of his orders. I intend to stay on the party list in order to fight that kind of politics."

"One of those nominated as a candidate for the new school board is a long time political right arm for Mr. Gartland," Sizemore charged. "This candidate has always been politically obedient and has never before shown any interest in education. I believe that if there is a Democratic victory that this person will be elected as the new chairman of the Board of Education as ordered by the boss."

Gartland, who was asked to comment on the charge, denied that candidates were hand-picked to do his bidding. "We selected from many names submitted those that we thought were the most qualified," he said. "Mr. Sizemore's name was presented for nomination by myself and at his request," Gartland said.

Woman's Club To Meet October 14

East Haven Woman's Club will have an executive committee meeting on Thursday evening, October 14 at 8 o'clock in the home of Fred P. Wolfe Jr., Elm Street.

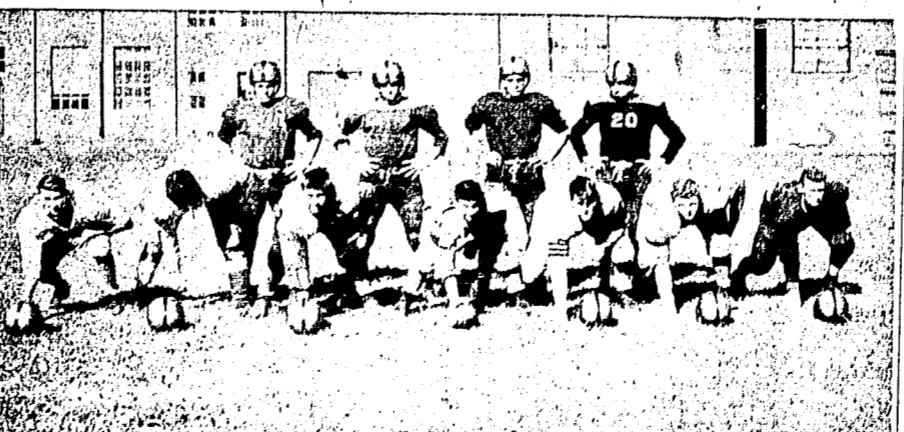

Firemen Assist Mother Locked Out By Frankish Wind

Firemen of Company one lent an assist Friday afternoon to a mother who was locked out of her house when the wind slammed the door isolating her young child inside.

The firemen were summoned at 2:41 p. m. to the first floor of 175 Hemingway Ave. The situation was solved with the aid of a ladder by which access was gained through a window and the door reopened by a fireman.

In a comparative quiet week, the only other call was a summons at 8:59 p. m. last Thursday to extinguish a rubbish fire reignited by night winds at High Ridge. There was no damage.

Bradford Manor Hose Company will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday evening in the firehouse. Capt. Cheadayne requests a full attendance.

U.S. Marriages Seen Happier

Despite High Divorce Rate

The high divorce rate notwithstanding, American marriages today are happier and better adjusted than ever before, according to a Yale sociologist.

John Sirjanaki, Assistant Professor of Sociology at Yale, concludes that "nothing fundamentally wrong with modern marriages, but married people may enjoy a higher standard of living than previous periods."

Moreover, he observes, divorce is no longer solely an American practice but has become a world-wide phenomenon. "The cause therefore," he says, "should not be searched for too exclusively within the national culture."

Mr. Sirjanaki's findings appear in his new book, "The American Family in the Twentieth Century," published today by the Harvard University Press.

The Yale sociologist points out that the lack of clan feeling—the lack of feeling for relatives other than the nuclear family—is a major factor in the decline of clan feeling.

In other and earlier societies, he explains, the clan was extended to relatives outside the nuclear or immediate family. In modern societies, however, the clan has become a minor life goal, but he believes that it should be based on mutual affection and choice of spouses.

Mr. Sirjanaki reports, Americans are still eager for marriage. "In their rate of marriage," he writes, "Americans do not differ significantly from Europeans of comparable cultural levels but otherwise they show greater relief for matrimony; they marry earlier, remain older, therefore spend greater portions of their lives in wedlock than in their country."

In fact, he notes, about 15 per cent of both men and women now married in the United States were previously wed to someone else other than their present mate.

"The evidence," he writes, "indicates that the present appreciation about divorce, which was rampant in the twenties and thirties, is being replaced by a new attitude toward preventing their marriages after they have already been broken by marital discord."

Conn. Business Maintains High Level of Revenues

Healthy Gain of 2.13 Per Cent

Conn. business continued at a brisk pace as it moved into the second half of 1953, according to the State Development Commission's monthly report on business conditions in the state, released today.

The mobile museum idea is a part of a growing world-wide movement to broaden museum education, said Mrs. Chase.

"All agreed at the conference," she said, "that the foundation of museum education should be the child, that in itself an original document of man, and that the first duty of the museum is to present that object honestly."

"All our museum educators are working to do this," she said, "and we are making a better job of it than ever before."

Earlier, Mrs. Chase asserted that the public museum is a relatively new phenomenon, hardly more than 150 years old. "It goes along with the rise of democracy," she said, "and since we in this country were leaders in that field it is not surprising that we have been leading in developing public museums."

Total employment during July was off a fraction of a per cent from the June figure, with factory production down 1.4 per cent, and non-agricultural employment down 0.4 per cent.

Although shipments of finished goods were off somewhat (freight car loadings dropped 9.1 per cent generally were down seasonally from June figures, however.

Are your children protected against typhoid fever, whooping cough, smallpox, diphtheria?

These conditions can be prevented through immunization, yet many parents do not take advantage of this protection.

There are many types of immunization. Simply stated, it is a method of helping the body create a "storehouse" of substances to ward off infection. These are called immune bodies. If injected in a human, they provide passive immunity that lasts only a few days or weeks. But if the causative germ of a specific disease is injected, in a modified and harmless form, it encourages the body to produce immune substances. This is active immunity. It takes a long period to develop, but thereafter affords protection for a number of years in many cases. The body mechanism for producing immune bodies deteriorates in time. For influenza, it is active only a few weeks. In whooping cough and diphtheria, it lasts one to three years, and in scarlet fever it may continue for life. But in diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and typhoid fever, active immunity may be quickly restored by "booster" injections.

The importance of immunization and its contribution to the general health is highlighted by the fact that epidemics do not develop in communities where 80 per cent of the people are immunized. However, this does not protect the remaining 20 per cent.

FOXON NEWS

Foxon Grange No. 84 celebrates its 65th birthday when it meets tonight in the community hall. Past masters of this grange and officers of the State Grange will be present. This will also be Boosters' Night which is an open meeting for public entertainment. This combination meeting will afford an excellent opportunity for anyone interested in joining this grange to learn about its past and present program. The meeting will be followed by dancing and refreshments. Grange meetings are now held regularly, on the 2nd and 4th Thursday of the month.

A get acquainted meeting for parents and teachers will be held at the Foxon School Monday night at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served by the executive committee. A good attendance is hoped for. Parents who have children temporarily attending other schools are also welcome. Mrs. Carl Johnson, president of the PTA will preside.

Moose Sponsors Benefit Game

Moose history will be made in New Haven on Oct. 24, 1953, when the famous Mooseheart Football Team from Mooseheart, Illinois, makes its first Eastern appearance to play Notre Dame High of West Haven, at Bowen Field. This will be known as the Conn. Moose Football Festival.

United Fund Sets $1.3 Million Goal For October Drive

With the dates of the third annual Key Drive drawing near and nearer United Fund-Red Cross volunteers have their work cut out for them during October 5 through 28.

A goal of $1,359,709 has been announced and Fred W. Loeser, United Fund president, said it represents a "challenge" to both Key Drive volunteers and to the community. It is $50,000 more than was contributed last year.

In commenting on the larger sum Loeser said, "This is as it should be. We have to set our sights higher because the needs of the agencies supported by public contributions to the United Fund are ever-increasing."

"The inflationary pressure of the present day poses serious problems of rising operating costs for health and welfare agencies and the 1954 goal tries to compensate for this," he said.

Four dozen agencies and causes are again included in the federated campaign and Stanley S. Trotman, campaign chairman, is confident that more money will be raised for participating agencies than in either of the first two Key Drives.

"Previous experience has shown that the United Fund is in an upward spiral and I'm sure the third annual Key Drive will emulate the success of other years by again raising more money than the preceding campaign."

"We are aiming at the goal and hope to push beyond it," Trotman said.

respective divisions of the campaign organization. Traditionally carrying the most weight is the industrial division with a quota of $484,826.

Frank Mozealous Head's Legion Yale Bowl Prog.

Junior Vice Commander Frank Mozealous of the Harry R. Bartlett Post No. 89, American Legion has been appointed as chairman of the post's state-wide project in cooperation with the Yale-Connecticut football game to be played in the Yale Bowl on September 26th.

All of the American Legion Posts in Connecticut are joining together for the special ceremonies which will precede the game and which will express a re-dedication of the principles of Americanism in collegiate athletics.

Chairman Mozealous, in accepting the appointment said, "we are proud to be a part of this project. We are grateful for the generous gesture of both Yale and Connecticut Universities which will enable the American Legion to enable the American Legion to raise the funds to carry on its patriotic functions and high ideals. We earnestly hope that every one in East Haven will cooperate with the American Legion in this worthwhile endeavor."

Tentative plans for pre-game ceremonies include a parade by more than fifty bands, brief addresses by national and state dignitaries, a mass pledge of allegiance by all those attending the game, and the presence of many distinguished governmental and Legion officials.

Chairman Mozealous said that every indication pointed to a crowd of some 50,000 people at this football game and urged all local residents to support the project by attending.

Assisting Mozealous on the committee are Ernest Castiglioni, Paul Lipkovich, and Ted Newman. Tickets are on sale at the following places of business in East Haven — West End Bowling Alleys, Graves Sport Shop, Florio's Restaurant, Metcalfe's Drug Store, Holcombe's Drug Store, and Thomas Patent Medicine.
